

What's bugging you?

With the summer season approaching, Lake County residents can expect to see more cicadas popping up. The Lake County Forest Preserve said residents in the southeast have seen the most of these red-eyed visitors.

Students take next step

Lakes Community High School graduates first set of seniors

By TARA CLIFTON

LAKE VILLA — Something was different about the commencement ceremony at Lakes Community High School.

Yes, the band and choir performed, and the senior speaker gave a speech that roused some to cheer.

But the fact that stood out on May 29 was that for the first time ever, 300 Lakes students earned the right to call themselves alumni of the school.

The Class of 2007 is the first to graduate from the high school, which was built four years ago.

Friends, family, faculty, and staffers swarmed Polley Field, across from Lakes, to witness the event. Many grasped bouquets of flowers and bunches of balloons for their seniors, while others held cameras and video recorders.

Kari Yamamoto and Jessi Gonzalez, both sophomores in Lakes' choir, helped usher people to seats that evening.

"It's really sad," Yamamoto said, about watching her older friends move on. "You get used people being there."

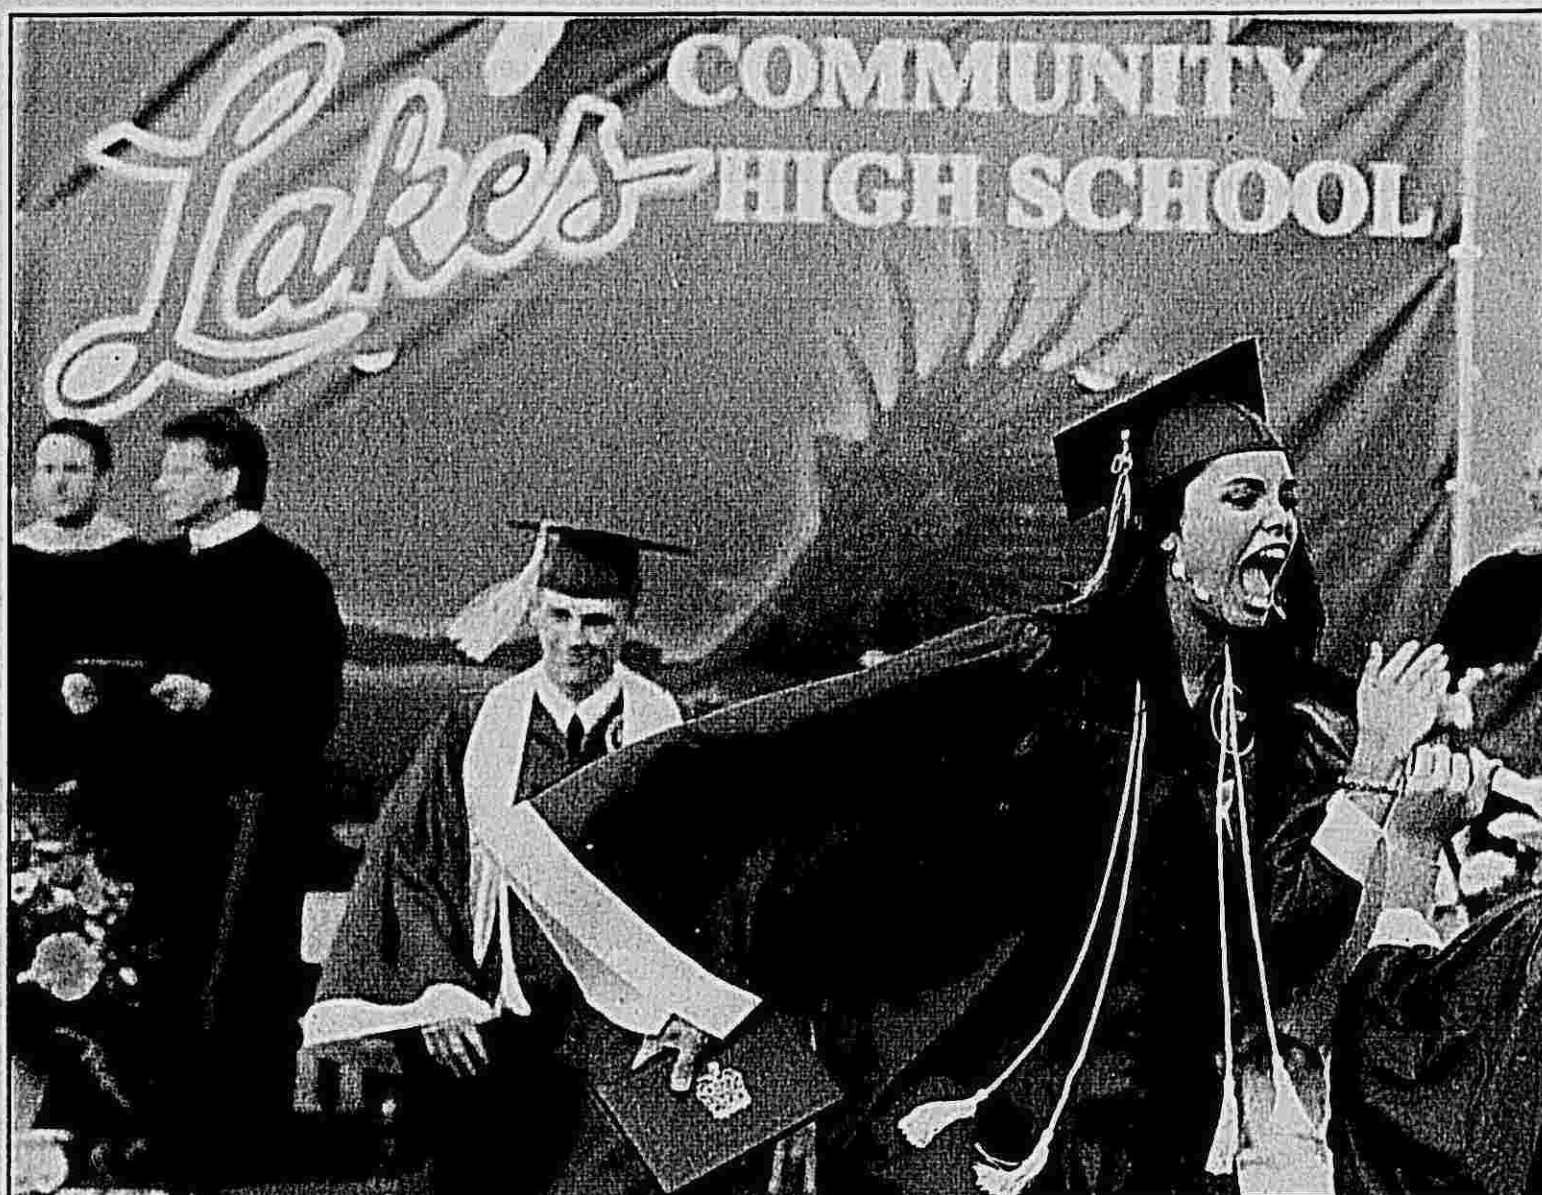

Gonzalez said that many of the seniors were role models for underclassmen.

"They've been like our brothers and sisters," Gonzalez said. "They've done a good job leading us. I don't know how we're going to fill their shoes."

Josie Gil came from Elmhurst to watch her grandson, Sharo Moini, get his diploma.

The graduation turned into a nearly all-day event for Gil and her family, she said. Gil's daughter, Christina, drove from Plainfield to pick up Josie, and the family, including Sharo's siblings Anjill and Russell, 12, and Andrea, 9, arrived more than an hour before the ceremony.

Proudly, Josie said that Sharo, who lives with his father in Lindenhurst, will attend the College of Lake County to study graphic arts. Pride in overcoming obstacles was Katherine Whitehurst's main message. She served as senior speaker.

When Lakes High School was first opened, students and faculty built from scratch sports teams, bands, choirs, clubs and more, making them unique to Lakes, Whitehurst said.

"We were forced to create an identity. We have dealt with the continuous change our school has thrown at us," she said. "Let's remember what we have done here together."

"We are Lakes; we are the change."

Is spelling very important? Beelieve it!

We took some liberty in spelling the word "believe" in the headline above.

That kind of thing can be a real attention-getter – especially when the subject is spelling!

It's part of our effort to call attention to the fact that the Lake County Journals will be the official sponsor of the 2008 Lake County Spelling Bee.

And the student who wins will qualify to participate in the Scripps National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C.

No date has yet been chosen. You will hear lots more about it next year as the event approaches.

Some topics are near and dear to newspapers: Literacy, for example ... and spelling.

As our readers sometimes point out, even professional journalists can be guilty of misspellings, despite the help offered by computer spell-checking.

But spelling can be a matter of preference when the dictionary allows more than one spelling.

Our first spelling authority is the Associated Press Stylebook. It prefers "judgment" over "judgement," for example, and "adviser" over "advisor."

Readers are our best advisers. Send your suggestions to llough@nwnewsgroup.com.

Getting full-service treatment

Business owner provides service from days of old

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ROUND LAKE - Before the gas crisis of 1979, few Americans had the knowledge how, or even the need, to pump their own gasoline. Many parents and grandparents probably remember when uniformed gas attendants would race to cars that pulled in and not only pump gas, but check all the fluids, tire pressure and wash the windshield.

The shops didn't sell beer, but they had clean restrooms and friendly staff members who would offer customers a map, a set of steak knives or dishes. They could even repair a car without negating the dealer's warranty.

Most of these "filling stations" are all but gone, but Lake Villa resident Larry Surlita still offers full service with a smile.

Larry, 53, owns the Corner Garage in Round Lake. Built in the 1950s, the shop started its life as a Sinclair station and now offers Marathon gas and rents U-Haul vehicles.

At night, the shop, at the corner of Cedar Lake Road and Washington Street, glows with bright and colorful neon lights. Inside, there are all sorts of old-fashioned gas station paraphernalia from a time long gone. Larry's wife of 15 years, Cindy, was into antiquing before she met Larry, as a customer at the station.

Larry had a shop in Hainesville with his father for a number of years, before his dad bought the Corner Garage in 1980. His dad died in 1988, and Larry has been keeping on ever since.

He works with his long-time friend Dave Schultz and a high school student, Jack Smith.

Cindy said Jack is the third oldest of five brothers, and the two older boys have both worked with Larry.

"The youngest one can't wait for his turn," Cindy said.

Larry has made a number of improvements to the old station throughout the years, including land-

Jack Smith cleans the windshield of Grayslake resident Darleen Stark's car as part of the full service treatment at the Corner Garage on the corner of Cedar Lake Road and Washington Street in Round Lake. The Corner Garage is one of the last full service gas stations still open in Lake County.

Check under the hood:

Where: The Corner Garage is at 233 W. Washington in Round Lake.

Hours: The shop is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays. The shop is closed Sundays.

scaping and other outdoor work. There are two pairs of large lights that sit between the pumps in front. These lights are back from an era when Texaco used to sponsor Bob Hope's TV specials, and the company had the motto, "You Can Trust Your Car To The Man Who Wears The Star."

He admits he doesn't pump as much gas as other large chains, but he runs an "honest repair shop." He said a lot of people, especially women, don't like to pump their own gas.

"People seem to want a local, independent repair shop; they don't seem to be happy with the dealers," he said.

Larry said if he can't repair someone's car, he'll tell them, and even tell them whether certain services don't need to be done at all, or wait until a later time.

Larry said he can do nearly any kind of work on a car, new or old. He can change tires, shocks, install a battery or wiper blades, change oil and make repairs. He doesn't do body repair, but he does offer 24-hour towing service.

As for new cars, Larry said their engineering leaves something to be desired and often makes work hard to do.

His favorite thing is doing restoration on classic cars, and the couple owns a 1955 Chevrolet Bel Air. They also own four cars that they drive and a truck that hauls Larry's stock car to Wilmet Speedway in Wilmet, Wis.

"And if anyone ever offers to let you drive in one or ride in one, don't do it," Cindy cautions. "It feels like you're losing a kidney."

Cindy said her least favorite thing about Larry's job is that he often comes home worn down, if the weather has been bad.

"A lot of older women and other people don't want to get out in the weather, so they'll get their gas pumped," she said.

For around 15 cents more a gallon, customers can get "whatever they need," according to Larry. They'll get their oil checked and all the old stand-bys.

"We've tried to make it homey and small townish," Cindy said. "And I think we've achieved that."

Don't stop donating

The Open Arms Mission food pantry in Antioch needs more donations as the slow days of summer approach.

Serving Lake Villa Township and Antioch, the mission gave food to 1,435 families in April, compared to 915 families in April 2006.

Money, food, or supplies can be dropped off at the mission, 1548 S. Main Street in Antioch, or sent to P.O. Box 79, Antioch, IL, 60002.

Call (847) 395-0309 for more information.

Get ready for cuteness. The Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center will have graduations at the end of the school year.

Full day private kindergarten kids will graduate at 7 p.m. on Thursday, June 7, at Trinity United Methodist Church, 101 S. Beck Road in Lindenhurst. The ceremony for preschool and pre-kindergarten students is 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 9, in the auditorium at Palombi Middle School, 133 McKinley Ave., in Lake Villa. Call (847) 727-3885 for more information.

Residents still have time to put in applications for the Antioch's Got Talent contest, the village's own version of American Idol.

Auditions will be June 23 at the Antioch Bandshell on Skidmore Drive, and each person will be scheduled according to how many people attend.

The finalists will perform live at the bandshell on July 21 during the Taste of Summer, and winners will receive trophies.

The Village at Victory Lakes offers maintenance-free living

Covering a sprawling 38 acres in scenic Lake County, The Village at Victory Lakes in Lindenhurst offers independent living apartments and garden homes as well as assisted living and skilled nursing services. Complete with a health and fitness center, library, country store, scheduled transportation, peaceful outdoor walking paths and planned social, recreational, spiritual, educational and cultural activities, The Village at Victory Lake provides the highest level of service to its residents.

"For seniors looking for a spacious home, we have beautiful two- and three- bedroom prairie-style garden homes that feature private patios and attached garages," said Mary Riggs, executive director for The Village at Victory Lakes. "Our roomy one- and two- bedroom independent living apartments feature a full kitchen and individual climate control. Also, our residents enjoy full-course meals in our elegant dining room."

Riggs said residents who live at Victory Lakes are able to enjoy "a maintenance-free lifestyle."

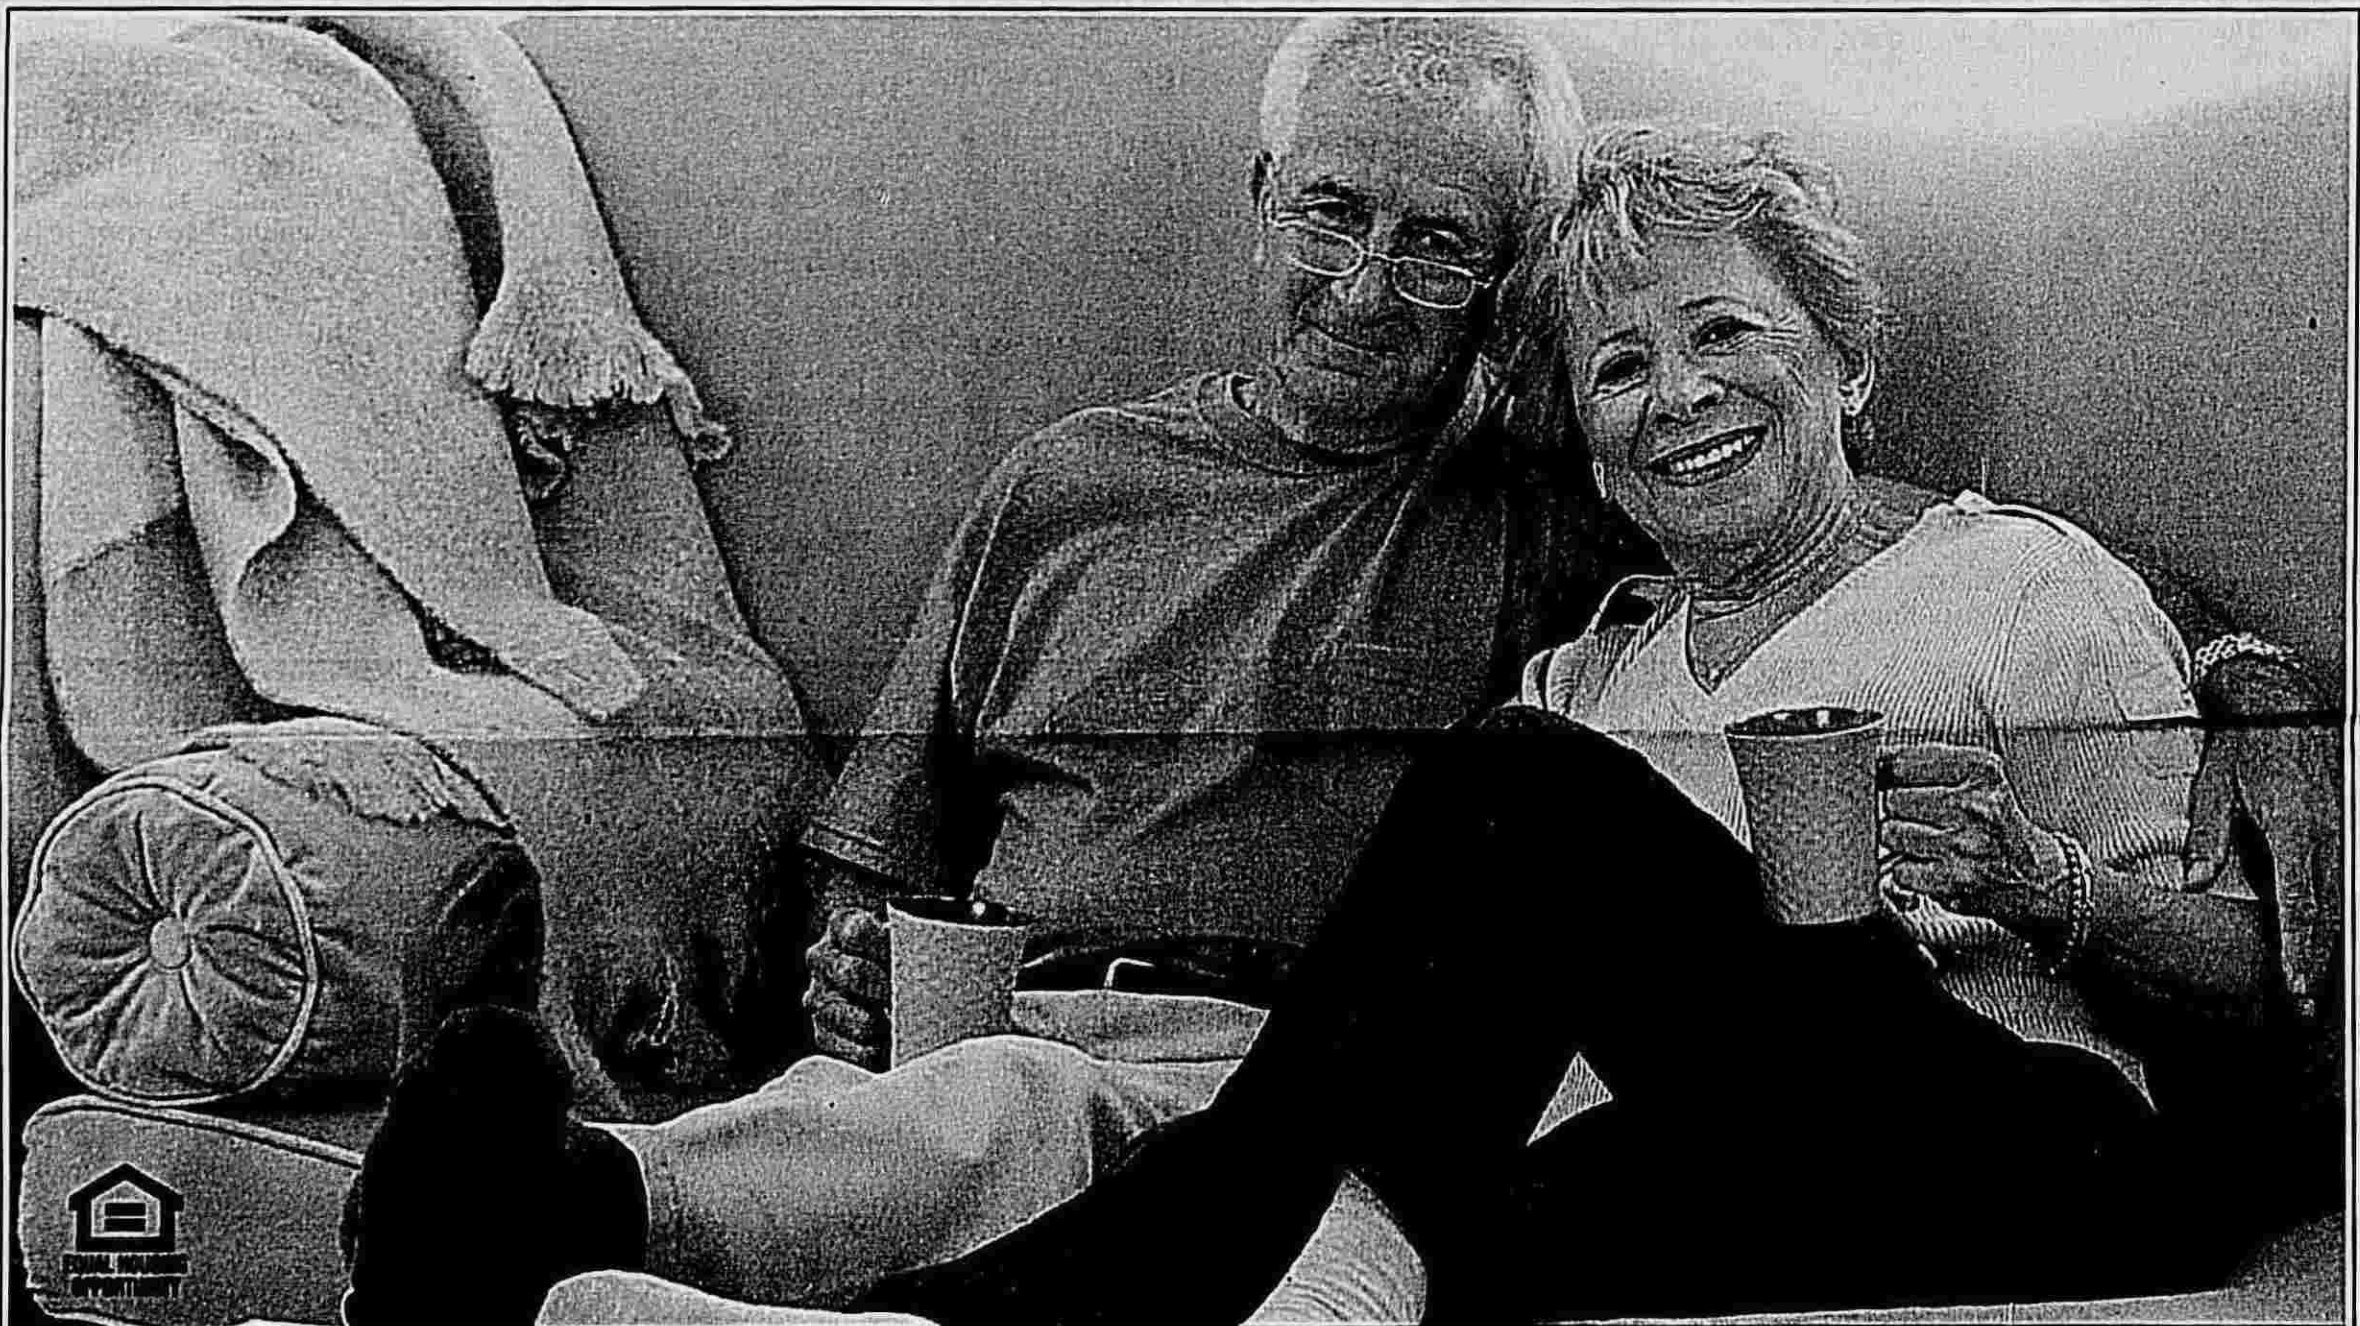

"Residents can take advantage of our many activities while not having to worry about yard work in the summer or snow shoveling in the winter," she said. "Our full range of services is geared towards helping seniors experience the fullness of life." Looking to further the mission and vision of the Franciscan Sisters of Chicago to provide high quality senior services, Franciscan Communities acquired The Village at Victory Lakes last summer.

Franciscan Communities, which is sponsored by the Franciscan Sisters of Chicago and is a division of the Franciscan Sisters of Chicago Service Corporation, currently operates 16 senior living communities in Indiana, Kentucky, Texas, Ohio and Illinois. Franciscan Communities also provides home and community-based health services in Indiana and a shelter for women and their children who are survivors of domestic violence in Indiana. Offering independent and assisted living, skilled nursing and Alzheimer's care, Franciscan Communities was ranked as the 6th fastest growing senior health and housing system in the nation in 2005. For more information, please call (847) 356-4666.

Your fulfilling retirement lifestyle begins at The Village at Victory Lakes

Consider the benefits of maintenance-free living. How much better would your life be if you spent the same or less money each month, while never having to worry about tedious chores like mowing the lawn or shoveling the snow? Imagine all the free time you would have to enjoy your life. This is what retirement is all about.

Covering a sprawling 38-acre campus in scenic Lake County, The Village at Victory Lakes offers a variety of independent and assisted living options to meet your needs.

If you're looking for a spacious home, come tour our two- and three-bedroom prairie style garden homes. They include a private patio and attached garage. The roomy one- and two-bedroom apartments feature a full kitchen and individual climate control.

Learn tips for a fun, safe summer

Fire Department releases safety suggestions

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

ANTIOCH - Now that Memorial Day weekend has come and gone, summer is unofficially in full swing.

The Antioch Fire Department wants residents to keep pool safety in mind, and remind motorists to continue to watch out for school buses.

Children should never be left alone at a pool area or beach, according to a press release.

All gates and doors should be latched so a child does not wander into unsafe areas.

Good behavior while swimming also is important. Officials recommend enforcing no running, pushing, or dunking rules.

And as the school year comes to a close and summer classes begin, drivers need to pay attention to buses.

When a bus flashes yellow lights, this means it is preparing to stop, and cars or trucks should slow down.

Red flashing lights and an extended stop sign indicate that children are getting on or off the bus and cars or trucks should be at a complete stop.

The only time drivers do not need to stop for a bus is when they are traveling in the opposite direction on a divided four-lane highway.

For more information on any safety issue, contact the Antioch Fire Department at (847) 395-5511.

D-117 buys more land, drops suit

Officials prepare for population growth

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH TOWNSHIP - School District 117 seems to be playing musical chairs, except instead of seats it's using land.

Last week the board bought, for $5 million, 80 acres on the southeast corner of Edwards Road and Route 45.

Superintendent Jay Sabatino said that the district had been searching for property that would be large enough to build another high school.

That's why in July 2006 the district bought 42 acres at 18752 Edwards Road, for $1.75 million. In March the district filed a condemnation suit for 30 acres on Crawford Road after landowner Susan Hyman refused to sell to officials.

Hyman could not be reached for comment.

But now that the district has 80 acres under its belt, Sabatino said that the suit against Hyman has been dropped and the 42 acres on Edwards Road will be sold.

Jan and Dean Milani, who now live on the 80 acres at Edwards Road, will stay for at least another seven years, Sabatino said.

"There's no rush," Sabatino said. "We're just trying to secure property in the eventuality we need the land."

The Milanis could not be reached for comment.

District officials expect population growth to continue, Sabatino said, meaning another school will be needed.

"If in 15 to 20 years it doesn't materialize, at least we're in a better situation," he said. "But at this point we see only more and more development occurring in the area."

According to the 2006 Illinois District Report Card, District 117 had a total enrollment of 2,497 students, and a student-teacher ratio of 18.7 to 1.

Future of park land remains uncertain

By TARA CLIFTON

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

LAKE VILLA - The Planning Commission formally voted that it doesn't like plans that would develop the former Cedar Lake and Sherwood parks, but as Village President Frank Loffredo said, "Nothing is carved in stone."

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 7, at Village Hall to approve public hearing minutes and its recommendations regarding a proposal to turn the old parks into residential and commercial properties along Route 132, said Robert Streicher, commission chair.

After that, the Village Board will review the proposal, Loffredo said.

Land owners Robert and Susan Johnston and Buschman Development want to build 515 residential units, including condominiums and townhouses, and a 12-acre commercial space.

Drawings for the Cedar Lake Park site showed 100 single family lots, ranging in size from 10,798 square feet to 26,000 square feet. Next to the subdivision were 133 townhouses, varying from 1,400 square feet to 2,350 square feet each.

On the Sherwood Park site, 102 townhouses would be built next to 180 condominiums. Adjoining the homes would be a 12-acre commercial area.

During public hearings, residents and commission members said they were upset that the developers did not seem willing to compromise.

"We thought that with a few revisions it wasn't a bad plan," Streicher said. "We had three public hearings and might as well have stayed at home."

Streicher said that he and other commission members felt that the plans did not meet village ordinances and requirements, and developers acted as if they would not budget.

"The plan that we presented is consistent with the goals and objectives within the community."

Helmut Peter

Associate of PRD Associates in Libertyville

"Obviously I disagree with that assessment," said Helmut Peter, of PRD Associates in Libertyville. He represented Robert and Susan Johnston and Buschman Development.

"We are willing to cooperate," Peter added.

Peter said that plans for the developments have changed since they were first presented to the village three years ago, but they have remained the same since the public hearings began in February.

"The plan that we presented is consistent with the goals and objectives within the community," Peter said. "We demonstrated compliance with specific ordinances. It's going to have a positive impact."

Peter also said that the plans were the same that the village agreed on during a lawsuit filed by Robert and Susan Johnston and Buschman Development. The suit was settled in mid-September 2006.

Village Attorney James Bateman said that village trustees will review the development plans using the guidelines of the settlement. The plans still must meet village ordinances.

But officials will need to see some changes before they feel those requirements are met, Loffredo said.

"They haven't proven they can meet village ordinances," he said. "We expect participation. Period."

Pageant needs more girls

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

LAKE VILLA - Not many young women and girls have signed up for Lake Villa's annual pageant, Alyce Brownlee, village clerk said.

Available since April 1, only a few applications have trickled in, Brownlee said, so the deadline to submit forms has been extended to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 5.

Applications can be picked up at Village Hall, and should be returned to Village Hall, 65 Cedar Ave., once completed.

To be Miss Lake Villa, candidates must be 16 to 21. Those eligible for Junior Miss should be 11 to 13, and the Little Miss hopefuls need to be aged 6 to 8.

The pageant itself will take place at 7 p.m. on Monday, June 25.

For more information, contact Brownlee at (847) 356-6100.

Kindergarten and preschool registration

The Lindenhurst Early Childhood Center is taking registration for its full day private kindergarten program for the 2007-08 school year. The certified program lasts seven hours, and class sizes average one teacher for 10 children.

The center also is having preschool registration for the next academic year. This program does not include day care.

The First Timers Group meets from 9 to 11:30 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays; 3-and-a-half to 4-and-a-half-year-olds meet from 12:15 to 2:45 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the pre-kindergarten program meets from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 12:15 to 2:45 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

To register your child, call (847) 356-2288 or log onto www.wearethefuture.com.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 34

Summertime

The district is now taking registration for its summer school classes. The first session will be 8:30 a.m. to noon Mondays through Thursdays from June 13 to July 3. The second session is 8:30 a.m. to noon Mondays through Thursdays from July 30 to Aug. 9.

Band, art, and sports camps are available as well as academic classes. Transportation, with a fee required, will be provided for only district students. Call Eric Skoog at (847) 838-8478 for more information or log onto www.antioch34.com.

Working kids' brains

Registration is now under way for Camp Invention, which will be in Antioch for the first time.

The program is open for kids in grades first through sixth, and is from June 25 to 29 at Antioch Upper Grade School.

The camp encourages brainstorming to create science, creativity, and teamwork.

The cost is $199 a child, which includes a T-shirt and daily snacks. A discount of $19 a child is offered with the Bring A Friend program. The program is limited to 110 kids.

Registration is due by May 31, or else a $20 late fee will be charged. For more information, log onto www.campinvention.org or call (800) 968-4332.

Old cells wanted

Antioch Elementary School is once again recycling old cell phones. They can be donated to the school office through April. For every phone recycled, the school gets money for Motorola through a special program. Call the school at (847) 838-8901 with questions.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 41

Possible reimbursement

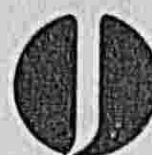

Parents or guardians who provided transportation for their children during the 2006-07 school year might be eligible to receive state money.

For families where free transportation was not available, reimbursement might be available if certain requirements are met. A claim must be filed by June 30. Visit your child's school to find out more.

SCHOOL DISTRICT 117

Summer guidance

Those who are new to the district can set up summer appointments with guidance counselors. Class schedules can be created or revised and building tours are offered. To make an appointment, call the Lakes Community High School guidance office at (847) 838-7144.

Hospital hosts bike donation drive

Working Bikes Cooperative, a Chicago-based organization that collects used bikes and repairs them for charitable donations, will conduct a bike drop-off day on Saturday, June 23, at Lake Forest Hospital.

Bikes of all sizes will be accepted between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the hospital's parking lot at 660 N. Westmoreland Road.

Volunteer bike mechanics will perform any necessary repairs to restore the bikes to safe operating condition. Once this has been done, the donated bikes are given to those in need such as displaced victims of Hurricane Katrina and residents of local homeless shelters.

Receipts for tax purposes will be provided upon request. Working Bikes Cooperative is a project of the Resource Center of Chicago.

For more information call Joanne Bluhm at Lake Forest Hospital at (847) 535-6348.

Planning commission celebrates 50 years

WAUKEGAN - On May 9, the Lake County Regional Planning Commission celebrated its 50th year of working to coordinate land use and development and promote smart growth throughout the county.

The planning commission advises the board on these issues by reviewing planned development proposals, re-zoning issues and related requests pertinent to the county's zoning ordinance. Commission members make recommendations on these matters to the zoning board of appeals.

"This occasion provides an opportunity to recognize those residents who have committed countless hours of time and energy by serving on the Commission," said Lake County Board Chairwoman Suzi Schmidt.

The 50th anniversary was celebrated with a breakfast prior to the Lake County Board meeting on May 8.

Cicadas make an appearance

Ground-dwelling insects begin to emerge in Lake County

By TARA CLIFTON
tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

LIBERTYVILLE - The periodical cicadas haven't fully emerged yet, but the event is still causing much buzz.

"It's pretty much the topic of conversation around here," said Allison Lehnen, an environmental educator with the Lake County Forest Preserves. "It's so great."

Lehnen said that southeast Lake County has seen the most red-eyed insects so far.

Catherine Savage, a forest preserve spokeswoman, said that northern parts of Lake County haven't experienced a full emergence yet, mostly because they are not as wooded.

And in forests with thick canopies, the soil hasn't warmed to 64 degrees yet, the temperature that alerts the cicadas to climb out of the ground, Savage said.

This brood of periodical cicadas has spent the last 17 years in the soil feeding on tree sap and growing. When cicadas reach maturity, they will push their way through the earth and the males will sing, very loudly, to attract the females. They will mate, and the females will lay eggs in the slim branches of young trees, and the adult cicadas will die.

After the eggs hatch they will fall to the ground and burrow inside, where they will eat and grow for the next 17 years.

The Brood XIII cicadas typically emerge in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

For the cicadas that have made an appearance, Lehnen said, that so far she has not heard of any events being disturbed by them.

Savage said she doesn't expect that cicadas will crash many outdoor parties because the bugs tend to focus on thick-treed areas.

"[Cicadas] only move between a couple of hundred feet from where they're born," Savage said. "It takes multiple generations to move. That's why we can predict pretty well where they're going to be."

Alyce Brownlee, Village Clerk for Lake Villa, said she doesn't expect cicadas to interfere with the village's upcoming Celebration of Summer, which will take place from June 7 to 10 at Lehmann Park.

The last time Brood XIII emerged, Lake Villa was unaffected, Brownlee said.

"I don't remember anything," she said. "The last time, it wasn't really around here."

For people who want to swarm the places where the bugs are, or for those who want to avoid them like the plague, the forest preserve created an interactive map on their Web site. It allows people to plug in the street addresses where they've seen the critters, Savage said.

Many people who Lehnen has seen and talked to are excited, and participation in cicada-related forest preserve events is high, she said.

The forest preserve is hosting guest speakers, information sessions, and more public events to teach and entertain residents. The preserve even created the CicadaMobile, a van and trailer full of exhibits to teach children and families about the creatures.

Advocate sets community tone for public hearing

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ROUND LAKE - Bill Gentes isn't responsible for planning Advocate Health Care's upcoming public hearing, but the Village Board president is going to do his best to stress to the community give their two cents there. He said the plan to bring Advocate Hospital-Lake County to Round Lake came from a plea for a hospital in the northwestern end of Lake County. If Advocate comes to Round Lake, it will provide closer health care and jobs for the surrounding communities.

"We have lots of municipalities involved, agreeing that we need more health care in Lake County," Gentes said.

Members of Advocate Health Care will have a public hearing at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, June 5, at the Round Lake Beach Cultural and Civic Center. The hearing will allow residents, health care workers and public officials to voice their opinions about Advocate's plan.

"I'm going to stress the importance of health care and jobs, and how they will benefit the area," Gentes said.

Medical history

- Proposed sites for Vista Medical Center Lindenhurst and Advocate Hospital-Lake County are less than 10 miles apart.

- If either hospital is approved, it will be the first new hospital planned for Lake County in nearly 30 years.

- Both plans could be approved, but that is not deemed likely.

- Lake County has more than 700,000 residents. The population is expected to increase between 3 percent and 6 percent, to about 800,000, by 2020.

- According to 2000 figures from the U.S. Census Bureau, the Round Lake Area - Hainesville, Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Heights, and Round Lake Park - has a combined population of 45,470. Several special census collections in 2006 could push that to more than 60,000. Figures from the 2000 census put Lake Villa and Lindenhurst's combined population at 18,403.

The public hearing portion is an important step in the hospital approval process, one that rival Vista Health Systems completed last month.

The Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board might have received transcripts of Vista's public hearing in time for their July 24 and 25 meeting.

Jackie Bailis, director of communication with Advocate Health Care, is one of the June 5 hearing organizers. She and others have approached community members, former patients and health care employees to speak at the hearing. Bailis said she has also been pleased by the number of people who have reached out to her.

During Vista's hearing in May, members from Advocate testified as well.

"We agree with others that there's a need," Bailis said.

Following Vista's hearing, Bailis said Advocate officials submitted a document responding to Vista's plan outline.

"As a health care system with some of the best clinical outcomes and service in Illinois, we are confident we know how to deliver outstanding care," said Jim Skogsbergh, president and CEO of Advocate.

MELINDA LYNN MORRELL

Born: Aug. 11, 1984
Died: May 21, 2007
Graduated from Round Lake Community High School in 2002

ROUND LAKE PARK – Melinda Lynn Morrell, age 22, of Round Lake Park, died Monday, May 21, 2007 in Waukegan. She was born Aug. 11, 1984 in Waukegan to Alton L. and Sheryl L. (Smith) Morrell.

Melinda was raised in Round Lake and educated in the Round Lake School District 116. She attended Beach Elementary School, McGee Jr. High School, and graduated from Round Lake Community High School in 2002. She attended classes the last two years at the College of Lake County where she was studying sport medicine. Her dream was to become an athletic trainer. She was an active member of the Spartans Cheerleading Squad until entering high school. In high school, she made the dance team and went with them to the state finals. She was also an assistant athletic trainer for the Round Lake Panthers. She loved her football team, always making sure the boys were taped OK for their games. She also continued to be an assistant coach for the Spartans Little Bantam Squad. Melinda was employed as a server for Buffalo Wild Wings and also at K-Mart, both in Round Lake Beach. The past six months, she was manager of the Check n' Go in Waukegan.

Melinda was affectionately called "Little Fresh" by family and friends. She enjoyed spending time with her nieces, and inspired them to be involved in cheerleading programs.

Survivors include her mother, Sheryl L. Morrell of Round Lake Park; two brothers, Douglas Morrell of Round Lake Park, Alton (Ranae) Morrell of Vina, Ala.; a sister, Nancy (Jim) Horst of Ingleside; nieces and nephews, Alton, Ill., KayCey, Curtis, Lauren, Shannon, Logan, and her godchild Ariell; maternal grandmother, Mary Ann Smith; and many aunts, uncles and cousins. She was preceded in death by her father, Alton L. Morrell on Jan. 16, 1997; maternal grandfather, Robert Smith; and her paternal grandparents.

Visitation was from 4 to 9 p.m. on May 28, at Justen's Round Lake Funeral Home, in Round Lake. The funeral service was at 10 a.m. on May 29, at Calvary Presbyterian Church in Round Lake. The Rev. Lisle Kauffman officiated. Interment was in Willow Lawn Cemetery in Vernon Hills. For those wishing to send an expression of condolence, the family suggests memorials to the KayCey Morrell Recovery Fund, c/o Community Spirit Bank, P.O. Box 66, Vina, Ala. 35593. Advocate looking for community input

Ballis said once the transcripts from the hearing are complete, administrators will do their best to process what they've heard from the public.

She adds that Advocate's transcripts won't make it to the IHFPB in time for its July meeting, and doesn't know when they will make a decision about either hospital.

Ron Zittler, a Round Lake resident who lives near Advocate's proposed site at Route 120 and Wilson Road, is in good health, but if he suffered a heart attack, he wonders where he would go for medical help.

"I think we should have both," Zittler said of Advocate and Vista hospitals. "I don't know why the state of Illinois has anything to do with it."

As for Advocate's plan, Zittler says "They have the space to do it [construct a hospital] and I think it would be good for Lake County."

"The people of Lake County, however, know what their community needs," Skogsbergh said. "We need their input to do this right. Please, let us know your feedback and attend the hearing to learn more about Advocate - Lake County Hospital."

Vista's plan

- Vista Health Systems announced plans in November of last year for Vista Medical Center Lindenhurst
- Vista submitted its certificate of need application to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board on March 1, 2007.
- Vista Medical Center Lindenhurst would be complete in the summer of 2010, if approved.
- Vista Lindenhurst would be a 215,000-square-foot, 140-bed medical center with 21 ER beds, five operating rooms, a catheterization lab and full radiology services.
- The building would be a three-story, triangular-shaped facility
- Vista Lindenhurst also would house physicians nearby in a 60,000-square-foot medical office building.
- The proposed location of Vista Lindenhurst is near Grand Avenue and Deep Lake Road in Lindenhurst, the site of Vista's current Surgery Center.

Advocate's plan

- Advocate Health Care announced plans Jan. 5 of this year for Advocate Hospital-Lake County
- Advocate submitted its certificate of need application to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board in March 2007
- Advocate's plan is for 144 single hospital rooms, and includes a Level II trauma center
- The facility would be built on 57 acres at Route 120 and Wilson Road in Round Lake, with a overall cost estimated at $239 million.
- If approved, the hospital will have 108 medical-surgical beds, a 16-bed intensive care unit and 20 obstetrical beds. The obstetrical service would include six labor/delivery-recovery rooms and a Level II newborn nursery.
- The hospital is designed to include a Level II trauma center, providing immediate access 24-hour-a-day emergency services for seriously injured patients.

What to do about gas?

Illinois was recently identified as the number one state in the country.

In gas prices. OK, so that's not good news. The only thing worse than being the state with the highest gas prices in the country is being the state with the second highest gas prices in the nation.

And on May 24 that happened when Illinois fell to second place behind Michigan, which had an average a gas price of $3.515 a gallon. At least when we were number one we had the sympathy of the nation. Now we are just another state with high gas prices.

In the past when people complained about gas prices being the worst ever, they weren't exactly accurate. When gas hit $3 a gallon last year, certain know-it-alls said, "But when adjusted for inflation, gas still is cheaper than it was in 1981."

Not any more. Twelve straight days of record high gas prices actually is significant. And those record-high prices take the inflation adjustments into account. It makes an impact.

It increases the cost of everything everyone buys, not just gas for your car. And, brace yourselves, for the first time in 26 years the amount people who are driving has declined.

USA Today reported earlier this year that in February 2007, people drove 1.9 percent less than they did in February 2006. That actually is encouraging. It shows that people can adjust their behavior in the face of higher gas prices. Of course, 1.9 percent is not much of a drop, but it's a start.

There have been some calls for Congress to investigate oil companies for possible collusion. Here's a better idea: Congress should increase refinery capacity and then ensure that oil companies use that capacity. More gas should equal lower prices.

On a microlevel, people do have some control. If gas is too high, people can live closer to their place of work, buy more fuel-efficient cars or trucks, and support efforts by the federal government and private industry to develop alternative fuels. And if it's really bad, there's always carpooling.

Freshman state rep gets 3 more bills passed

The Illinois General Assembly moved to pass three pieces of legislation sponsored by State Rep. Sandy Cole, R-Grayslake, that will crack down on sex offenders, ensure school bus safety, and provide an income tax credit for businesses that establish child care services for their employees.

All three bills are part of Cole's Family Focus initiative, a comprehensive legislative agenda aimed at improving and strengthening the health and quality of life of families in Lake County and throughout Illinois.

Senate Bill 14 requires that when sex offenders register with their appropriate local law enforcement agency as part of their required annual registration, they must provide the law enforcement agency with all e-mail addresses, instant messaging identities, chat room identities, and other Internet communications identities that they use or plan to use.

The sex offenders also would be required to report all Uniform Resource Locators (URLs) that they use or that are registered under their name, as well as all blogs and other Internet sites maintained by the sex offenders, or to which they have uploaded any content or posted any messages or information.

The bill also provides for disclosure of such information to the public. The bill's senate sponsor was State Sen. Don Harmon, D-Chicago.

Senate Bill 166 provides that each school district in Illinois have a policy in place by Jan. 1, 2008 to ensure that the school bus driver is the last person to leave a school bus, and that no child is ever left behind or remains on the bus at the end of a route, a work shift, or the work day. The bill's Senate sponsor was U.S. Sen. Christine Radogno, R-Lemont.

House Bill 1242 will provide an income tax credit to cover start-up costs for businesses that provide child care services to their employees. The bill's sponsor in the senate was Cole's hometown counterpart State Sen. Michael Bond, D-Grayslake.

Cole was the Chief House Sponsor of SB 14 and SB-166, and the Chief Sponsor of HB 1242 in the House of Representatives. All three bills will now be sent to Gov. Blagojevich for approval.

"Nothing is more important than ensuring the health and safety of our families," Cole said. "My legislation will help parents and law enforcement crack down on sex offenders, make sure that every child who rides a school bus is safe and secure, and give an incentive to businesses to provide child care services for their employees."

Gentes' re-appointments go smoothly

With Jerry Shaw and Patricia Blauvelt no longer on the Round Lake Village Board, Village Board President Bill Gentes was able to re-appoint several of his top administrators without incident earlier this month.

Last year, the board was evenly divided on Police Chief Cliff Metaxa.

None of the boards made any comment on their position, but Gentes had to cast the deciding vote to re-appoint Metaxa last year.

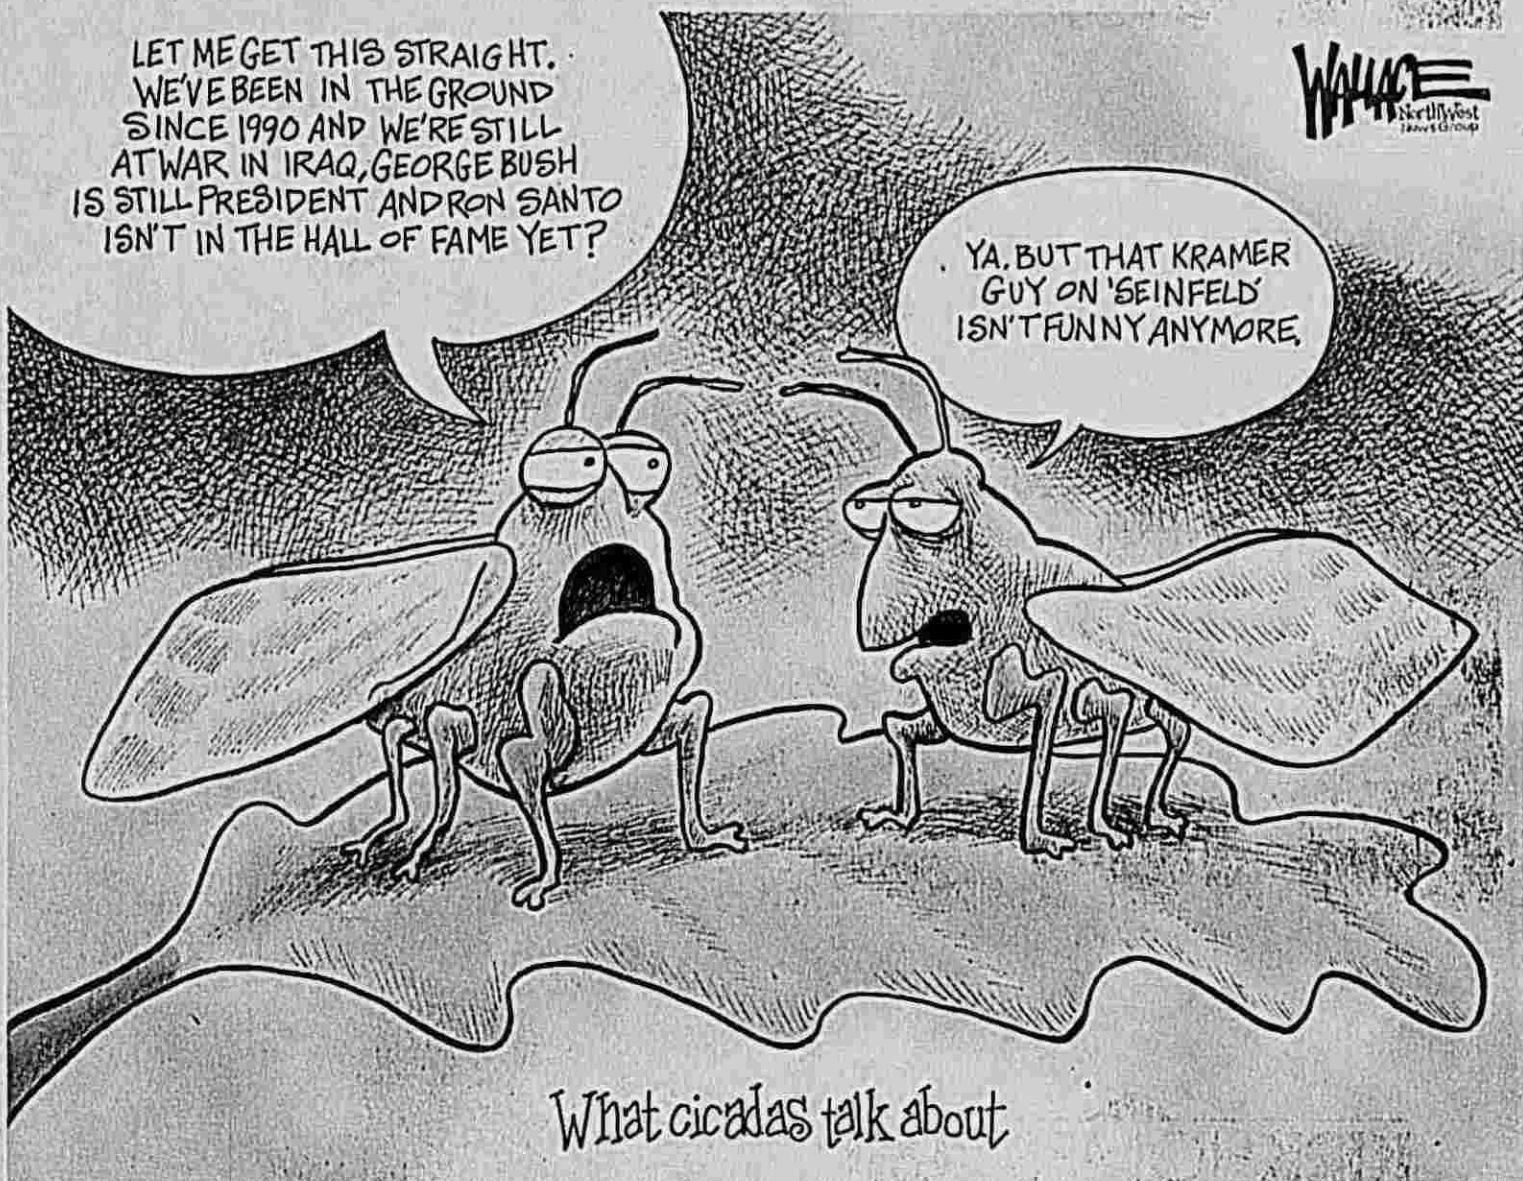

Then trustee Shaw said the vote wasn't so much about Metaxa being a problem, but as "the man at the top," Shaw said he just hasn't "seen any results" from the department.

Gentes claimed he was disappointed by the vote, saying "the three trustees didn't talk to me about the chief's performance."

Proper flag disposal

To the Editor:
The other evening I was driving down a street with garbage cans set out for the next morning's pickup. Much to my dismay, I saw a full sized American flag and pole stuffed into a garbage can. I wanted to stop and ask the people if they knew that this was not the proper way to dispose of a flag, and also was the ultimate disrespect to our flag and all it stands for. I became more angry as I drove on.

I called a local American Legion and told them what I just saw and asked what was the proper disposal technique (I thought I knew the answer, but wanted to be sure). The woman I spoke to also was upset when I stated the situation. She said that an American flag that had served it's time and was no longer being displayed, should be respectfully folded, placed in a bag and brought to a local American Legion where they will burn it in a memorial service with honor.

Later that evening I went back to the garbage can, took the flag home, folded it and placed it in a bag then delivered it to the American Legion. This made me feel better, but I was still saddened that someone would have such little respect for our American flag and all that it stands for. For all of the soldiers past and present who not only fight for, but have given the ultimate sacrifice of their lives for our flag and for all of us. The fact that someone would not even consider it's meaning before so inconsiderately tossing it into the trash.

I would like to hope that everyone will remember to treat our American flag with the respect and honor it so much deserves.

Filing date change needed

To the Editor:
In theory, an earlier presidential primary in Illinois will boost voter interest, registrations and turnout. However, as election administrators, we see the need to set earlier candidate-filing deadlines so that there is sufficient time to prepare the balloting apparatus.

In 2006, Illinois introduced early voting for those who want to cast ballots when and where they want, starting 22 days before the election. That year, Illinois also introduced grace period voting, for those who need to register after the traditional cutoff, starting 28 days before the election. These were welcome reforms, but they essentially moved the election process ahead by a month without a change in the candidate-filing schedule.

What few have noticed is that if we move our primary to Feb. 5, 2008, Illinoisans will cast ballots through early voting on Jan. 14 and grace period voting on Jan. 9 - all weeks ahead of the Iowa caucuses! With more attention focused on Illinois in a high-profile election, we cannot afford a timetable that forces a last-minute scramble to program and test election equipment. The presidential primary ballot is one of the longest and most complex. One court case could affect ballots across multiple counties or the entire state.

Additionally, this schedule needs to be fair to other electoral participants. For grace period and early voting to be viable options, the voters, civic groups and editorial boards need time to know who is on the ballot and where the candidates stand. Last-minute changes threaten to disenfranchise voters who use the grace period and early voting options.

Our concern is that candidates currently would file for office in November. To print absentee ballots by late December and settle the other ballots by early January, there would be little more than a month to handle any objections and court cases - all during weeks that include Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, Christmas, and New Year's Day. This is unfair to the many participants and increases the probability of balloting crises in our state.

We share the enthusiasm for moving Illinois into a mix of states that are likely to decide our presidential nominations. With the whole world watching, though, we need to adjust the front-end of the election schedule to better accommodate grace period and early voting. That starts by changing state laws to set the deadlines 28 days earlier: nominating petitions by Oct. 8 and objections by Oct. 16.

Have dictionary, will travel (to D.C.)

Can your kid spell ursprache? Or how about appoggiatura? Perhaps autochthonous?

Those three gems in italics just happen to be the last words the winners correctly spelled in the past three Scripps National Spelling Bees.

How does that affect me here in Lake County, you ask?

I can barely spell my own name, you say?

It's almost impossible to get onto that stage, you say?

I hear the mumbling, the grumbling as well as the harumphing (sic).

Well if your kid successfully spells the final word in the 2008 Lake County Spelling Bee, he or she gets a shot at the Scripps National Spelling Bee.

And, no, they won't have to navigate through some super-semi-double-dog-dare regional in Chicago to punch that ticket.

Chris Krug

This past week, the Lake County Journals received the rights to send a qualifier from Lake County to the Scripps Bee in Washington, D.C.

That's right, some grade-schooler from Lake County will head to D.C. to take on 280 or so other kids from around the country in a showdown of spelling supremacy.

For years, the Tribune Co. had the rights to the Bee. I have no reason why it backed out. And frankly, I don't care. Tribune did next to nothing to promote it locally.

NorthWest News Group of Greater Chicago also acquired the rights to the 2008 Bees in McHenry and Kane counties, each of which will result in a kid from those areas heading to D.C.

No dates have been announced for the 2008 Lake County Spelling Bee.

And the practice books haven't been released yet.

Bear with us. We're working on it.

See if for yourself: If you have the bug, check out the 2007 competition.

The semifinal and finals action took place on Thursday; results were not available at press time.

The champion of the national event gets a prize package worth nearly $50,000, of which $20,000 comes in the form of cash (which, as Yogi Berra would tell you, is just as good as money).

Student art on display at College of Lake County through June 8

By MATT PERA
mpera@nwnewsgroup.com

Steve Jones has been the curator at College of Lake County's Robert T. Wright Community Gallery of Art for 22 years. So, when he assesses the 26th annual CLC Student Art Competition, he has a definite frame of reference.

"The feedback that I've gotten from many of the students and members of the public is they thought this was one of the best student shows we've ever had here," Jones said. He added that he agreed with that assessment.

Art students at CLC entered about 150 pieces for consideration in the exhibit. That collection was paired down to about 55 for the final cut.

And two students in particular were identified from that group as displaying exceptional work in the show.

A jury consisting of members of the Lake County Arts League awarded CLC students Wendy Torkelson and Mike Loizzo each with $500 scholarships.

Duke's Grill serves up great food and civic pride

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER
Lesonlife@sbcglobal.net

Duke's Grill is a reflection of the best in Wauconda. Not only does Duke's serve a wide range of great food; it takes an active role in the community. As owner Duke Ivers said, "Businesses should give back. I believe all the businesses in Wauconda should be a showcase for the town."

Duke Ivers, after bartending for Walter

Payton and opening up clubs across the country, moved to Wauconda in 1985 to enjoy the outdoors and water skiing. He saw that "there weren't many choices in restaurants. It was a natural progression to move up to my own place," opening Duke's Grill nine years ago.

Duke's restaurant, which seats 200, has a warm, welcoming feel with a subtle fishing motif and pictures reminding you of Wauconda's resort town roots. The bar area has six TV's, seating for 90, and live music on weekends. Food is also served in the bar, with specials like "Buck-a-Burger Nite" Wednesdays after 5:00 p.m.

Ivers said his restaurant's "signature is the salad bar." However, the well-rounded menu includes award-winning wings, burgers, sandwiches, barbeque, and a host of full course meals. There are also daily specials, like all-you-can-eat crab legs for $19.99 on "Crabby Sunday".

I tried Duke's Reuben, a generous helping of lean corned beef, sauerkraut, melted Swiss cheese, and grilled rye bread, with Thousand Island dressing. I was able to enjoy the extensive salad bar for an additional $1.99. Duke noted that they are "constantly communicating with customers" to ensure satisfaction.

Duke's Grill is also a presence in the community because of its proficiency at handling large events. Ivers said they can handle "three major events in one weekend", and are the

As for plans for the future, Duke Ivers announced a major event of his own. Within the year he plans to open "a Duke's II" within a seven-mile radius of his current restaurant.

'Knocked Up' a knock-out summer comedy

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

"Knocked Up"

★★★★½

Genre: Comedy
Director/writer: Directed and written by Judd Apatow
More information: Rated R for sexual content, drug use and language; running time is 129 minutes

Katherine Heigl and Seth Rogen star in "Knocked Up," directed and written by Judd Apatow.

Smack in the middle of another lifeless year at the multiplex, "Knocked Up" restores your faith in going to the movies.

Like Judd Apatow's previous raunchy comedy "The 40-Year-Old Virgin," "Knocked Up" makes you laugh hard and often. Rarely do 30 seconds pass between guffaws. Nearly every line of dialogue is hilarious, but few come across as jokes.

The title crudely explains the premise. Celebrating her promotion to on-air talent at E! cable network, gorgeous Alison Scott (Katherine Heigl of "Grey's Anatomy") has a drunken one-night stand with chubby slacker Ben Stone (Seth Rogen). Pregnancy follows.

An unexpected, unwanted pregnancy seldom is considered a laughing matter, but Apatow reaches into the deepest anxieties and humiliations of life and pulls out comic gold. He certainly is not the first to find humor in pain – the old saying is that comedy equals tragedy plus time.

Apatow's gift is that his very human comedy isn't intellectually funny in a Woody Allen way, but fall-out-of-your-seat-in-hysterics funny in an "Airplane!" way.

Much of the humor in "Knocked Up" rises from class-consciousness. Alison is a driven young woman whose career is just now coming together, even though she lives with her sister, Debbie (Apatow's wife, Leslie Mann), her sister's husband, Pete (Paul Rudd), and their children. Ben lives in a Hollywood ranch home with his stoner buddies (all but one played by Rogen's co-stars from "Freaky and Geeks" and "Undeclared," Apatow's short-lived but brilliant TV shows). When not staring at their navels, they work to finish a Web site that catalogs nude scenes in all films. They are tragically unaware dozens of such sites went on line roughly 15 minutes after the World Wide Web was invented.

Alison decides she wants to keep the baby, even though it might end her job at E! Ben decides he will try to be a good father and supportive partner, despite his lack of ambition to do anything else.

Things go well at first. But the constant fighting between Debbie and Pete serves as a terrible role model, and things get worse when Alison and Ben take sides in her sister's marriage (Ben and Pete bond over "Back to the Future" trivia).

The key to "Knocked Up" is that Ben and Alison, despite random acts of crankiness, are likeable characters, and we want things to work out for them. They aren't prepared to become parents, but as Apatow points out, no one is. Not even the most devoted married couples who memorize Dr. Spock know what's in store.

Rogen and Heigl sparkle together, even though they spend much of the film frustrated with each other: Rogen has perfected the role of the lovable slob, and even though his arc is the same as Steve Carell's in "40-Year-Old Virgin" – immature man must set aside his boyish dreams for the sake of a mature relationship – Rogen is more of an everyman than Carell, which makes "Knocked Up" the better comedy.

With only a few films and television shows, Apatow has developed an ensemble that includes Rogen, Rudd, Mann and Jason Segel (here more or less reprising his "Freaky and Geeks" role as Rogen's best friend). Here's hoping Heigl and Harold Ramis, who plays Rogen's father, join Apatow's regulars.

Apatow loves his actors and the characters they play, and the improvisational spirit on his set keeps the comedy fresh and real. Unfortunately, Apatow's one weakness is that he doesn't know when to cut his friends off. "Knocked Up" runs an indulgent 129 minutes. Take out 20 minutes, and it would be a perfect comedy.

On the other hand, few movies sustain humor at such a high pitch for more than two hours. "Knocked Up" might not be perfect, but it is hilarious in its sloppiness.

New thriller sure to leave audiences in suspense to the end

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nwnewsgroup.com

Just when it seemed the serial-killer film had been done to death, "Mr. Brooks" brings something fresh to the genre.

Starring Kevin Costner as the titular killer, "Mr. Brooks" is a fast-paced thriller that concentrates more on characters and sardonic humor than on dread and gore – although dread and gore remain in the mix.

Earl Brooks is a Jekyll-and-Hyde character. As the new Portland Man of the Year, Mr. Brooks is beloved by the Oregon business community, as well as his wife (Marg Helgenberger) and daughter (Danielle Panabaker).

Yet he also is a methodical killer. The Hyde part of his personality is represented by Marshall (William Hurt), who convinces Earl that the Man of the Year honor offers the perfect cover to resume his secret career as the Fingerprint Killer.

Marshall, in case I'm not making it clear, is a figment of Earl's imagination. Having another actor play the personification of his murderous desires is a theatrical device that shouldn't work, but does.

The refreshing thing about "Mr. Brooks" is that it tells us Marshall's identity from the get-go instead of saving it for a shockeroo twist ending that would make the film another lame "Fight Club" imitation.

Earl considers killing an addiction, a sickness. He has fought his impulses for the past two years by attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. But the excitement of winning Man of the Year has reawakened the desire to kill, much to Marshall's delight.

When Mr. Brooks kills a couple while they are making love later that night, he makes an uncharacteristic mistake. He fails to close the drapes before shooting his victims.

The next morning, a young man, who calls himself Mr. Smith (Dane Cook), shows up at the box factory Mr. Brooks owns. Smith lives in an apartment that overlooks the victims' building and photographed the murder.

Smith blackmails Mr. Brooks, but his demands are unusual. He got such a rush watching Mr. Brooks kill the couple, he wants Mr. Brooks to make him his apprentice. That's the first departure from the standard serial-killer formula.

The second comes when Mr. Brooks' seemingly perfect home life starts to collapse for reasons unrelated to his secret life.

His daughter, Jane, returns from home from her freshman year in college and announces she has dropped out. Then she drops bombshell No. 2: she's pregnant.

Jane has a third bombshell, but to reveal it would give away one of the script's strongest twists.

"Mr. Brooks" does follow some serial-killer conventions, and one is the dogged cop, Detective Tracy Atwood (Demi Moore), on the trail.

Although the Fingerprint Killer remains her great white whale, Atwood has made a name for herself nailing other serial killers.

This is an unusual accomplishment for a municipal detective, as it paints Portland as the serial-killer capital of the Pacific Northwest.

Atwood's storyline is the weakest aspect of "Mr. Brooks," partly because it tells more than necessary about her divorce, but mostly because of major role in 10 years reminds us just how much she wasn't missed.

Moore's stiff performance. Not counting "Charlie's Angels: Full Throttle," Moore's first

Bruce A. Evans directs from a script he co-wrote with Raynold Gideon. They give Costner some great dialogue.

Mr. Brooks warns Mr. Smith, "If it turns out you enjoy killing, it can become addictive. It can ruin your life."

Duke's Grill is a destination spot

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgruop.com

The Beatles-style band American English helped draw hundreds of people to Duke's Grill in Wauconda recently to assist an area resident.

"We had 600 to 800 people here at the benefit for Mike Cullum, and they found a donor for a bone marrow transplant for him," said Duke Ivers, Duke's Grill American Pub & Eatery owner. "Having a successful event like that is great, because it draws awareness to the disease and brings people here who may not have tasted the food here and a chance to check us out."

A casual dining atmosphere is promoted at the restaurant, at 476 W. Liberty St., in Wauconda. One can enjoy carry-out hours, cater an event, or go there for a hamburger. There is an American Smokehouse Buffet, and Wednesdays are buck-a-burger night.

A specially hired crew of 25 handles events, from festivals such as WaucondaFest later this month to weddings and Lake County Forest Preserve events. Ivers supports several local events during the year, and summer is especially busy. He once won the Wauconda Lions Club's Harley Davidson motorcycle drawing.

Ivers said the salad bar remains the restaurant's signature feature.

Photos of old Wauconda, including Phil's and Honey Hill beaches and the old railroad, dot the walls of the place, which seats 200 in the dining area, 90 at the bar.

"We have an American Grill format," Ivers said. "We follow the trends of the menu and keep a careful eye on what works well and what does not."

Ivers has been owner of Duke's for almost nine years. He previously worked at the late Walter Payton's restaurant chain. He graduated from a chef's school in San Diego in 1976.

"When I moved to Wauconda in 1985, the only real restaurant here was Mers," Ivers said. "The more restaurants in a town, [the more] it gives people choices to spend their money here and helps make this a destination place. Competition is healthy. I have my finger on the pulse of what people want. It has been trial and error over the years."

There is a hickory pit in the kitchen, good for ribs and a beef brisket, and there is a variety of steaks. Salads include an all-you-can-eat salad bar; crispy shrimp club salad, hickory smoked chicken chop salad, grilled chicken caesar salad. Appetizers include onion rings, crispy calamari, mozzarella sticks, chicken fingers and more. Several nachos and quesadillas also are available.

Torn apart by war

By TOM WITOM
thomaswitom@yahoo.com

"Shenandoah," which found success in 1975 as a long-running Broadway musical and, before that, as a film starring Jimmy Stewart, is getting a highly respectable revival at Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire.

The music, by Gary Geld with lyrics by Peter Udell, is nicely performed by a spirited cast directed and choreographed by David H. Bell. The cast and music perfectly capture the story - by James Lee Barrett, Peter Udell and Philip Rose - of a protective Virginia farmer who has planted himself squarely in the middle of the Civil War that divided the country.

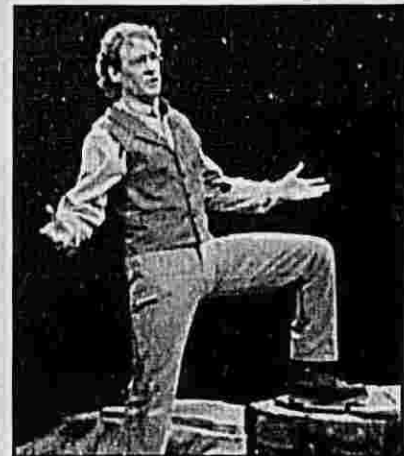

Charlie Anderson, a grieving widower played with gritty determination by David Hess, is opposed to the divisive war and slavery. As such, he won't side with either the Confederacy or the Union forces, instead choosing to "sit out" the war. Nor will he allow his six sons and one daughter to join a war effort that he says he didn't choose and doesn't support.

It's a bold statement, but when one of his sons goes missing as a result of the conflict, it becomes personal.

"Shenandoah" has a pleasing mix of songs, from ballads to foot-stomping, hand-clapping numbers that capture the family at times of joy as well as sadness.

Hess gets many chances to show off his rich, mellow voice, including "Meditation" and "Papa's Gonna Make It Alright."

Meanwhile, Anderson's daughter, Jenny (Jessie Mueller), and daughter-in-law, Anne (Abby Mueller), shine in the sweet duet "We Make a Beautiful Pair."

Richie Roesner takes on the role of Robert, Anderson's 12-year-old son who joins his playmate, Gabriel (Cory Connor), a 15-year-old slave who lives in the neighborhood, in the probing song "Why Am I Me?" Later, together with Abby Mueller, they bring down the house with "Freedom."

Magic is in the air

Swing into Cirque Shanghai: Bai Xi

By DANI SCHWEIGERT
dschweigert@nwnewsgruop.com

When Michael Wilson traveled with his magician father, Mark, as a child, he never could have guessed that it would lead him to where he is today - vice president of International Special Attractions Ltd. and co-executive producer of Cirque Shanghai.

In the 1960s, Wilson appeared on his father's CBS show, "The Magic Land of Allakazam." He then accompanied his father to China for three weeks in the 1980s, where they were invited to perform. His father was the first variety entertainer to perform for the people of China since WWII. While in China, Wilson and his father saw Chinese performances and shows, including Chinese acrobats.

After returning to China to live and study in 1982 and 1983, Wilson and his father decided to bring Chinese acrobats to perform in the United States in 1984. One of Wilson's latest cirque groups is Cirque Shanghai. And when he was able to bring Cirque Shanghai to Navy Pier last year, he was thrilled.

"When the opportunity came to bring a show to Navy Pier, we created a show specifically for that area," he said. "We looked at the type of guests and people at Navy Pier, and we developed a show that would have the best appeal to that demographic."

And Cirque Shanghai will return to Navy Pier this year with the world premier of a new show, Cirque Shanghai: Bai Xi, from June 6 through Sept. 3.

To make the show accessible to all audience members, Wilson said, the emphasis of the show is on the visual aspects, as well as finding new talent and acts.

"China is developing new acts all the time," he said. "Every show we bring over has something new to it."

Wilson added that last year's show, which was called Cirque Shanghai, was amazing, but this year's show is even better.

"It's a spectacular production," he explained. "We have a cast of 30, and award-winning acts. It's the type of show where you don't quite know when to catch your breath."

And Andrew Park, director of Cirque Shanghai, agreed that this year's performance will blow audiences away.

"The talent is amazing," he said. "It surpasses last year in every way."

That talent is displayed in 18 acts during Cirque Shanghai: Bai Xi. Some of those acts include a five-girl contortionist act, classic Chinese acrobat acts such as plate spinning, European acts like silks, a trapeze act and a leather strap act.

"It's going to be an incredible show," Park said. "Even if people saw the show last year, they haven't seen anything yet. I think people aren't just going to come see the show once; they're going to want to come back and see it again."

Mustangs, Cobras to be featured

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

For at least a little while June 3, people will have the opportunity to forget about the nearly $4-a-gallon cost of gas and go back to a day when the throaty rumble of a healthy V8 engine was nirvana.

For many collectors of prime-era Fords and Shelby Cobras, that day has never perished. At least 300 of these collectors are expected to come to the Volo Auto Museum show grounds at 27582 W. Volo Village Road on Sunday, June 3.

Some of the show cars will be for sale, said museum director Cyndi Wyss.

"Entrants were offered either a show-it-off or sell-it-off opportunity at this event," Wyss said. "So for enthusiasts interested in joining the ranks of collector car owners, or for those who just appreciate the beauty of these incredible automobiles, June 3 is going to be a lot of fun."

endary cars counted among the muscle car ranks.

"Most of the Cobras pack 300 to 600 horsepower," museum proprietor Greg Grams said. "When they go by, you'll know it. They're fire-breathing, ground-pounding cars."

Auto industry great Carroll Shelby gained fame as a record-breaking race car driver in the 1950s and went on to design sports cars, including the Shelby Cobra, Shelby Mustangs and more.

Owners of these automobiles generally are not shy about their love of Shelby's penchant for cramming tremendously powerful engines into lightweight chassis.

Powerful pre-1973 Fords, both Shelbys and non-Shelbys, catapulted Ford with young auto buyers of the '60s and early '70s, before the oil embargo changed the automotive landscape and sent last century's muscle-car era into the history books.

Along with the Mustang, muscle and pre-muscle models included the Fairlane, Galaxie and Thunderbird.

From the elegant curves of the Cobra to the brawny stance of a Mustang fastback, hundreds of these cars will dot the grassy fields at Volo Auto Museum June 3.

Owners of all pre-1973 Fords were encouraged to register, so visitors should not be surprised to spy a 1931 Roadster or a Model T.

Among the hundreds pre-registered are a 1966 Ford Sunbeam Tiger, a 1971 DeTomaso Pantera and a 1966 Shelby GT-350.

Ford Fun Weekend, a Shelby-Ford-Cobra show and corral, will include music and awards. Artist Peter Secker, of McHenry, will display his oil paintings of classic car landscapes.

Torkelson received the Phoebe Boyd Scholarship for her oil painting, titled "Magnolias 3," which is an installment in a 13-part series.

Loizzo was recognized with the Lake County Art League Scholarship for his ceramic sculpture, titled "Halfway: Keeping the Momentum."

Torkelson, of Round Lake, said she was honored when she was informed that she had received one of the two top awards from the show. While she is not a full-time student at CLC, she has taken the advanced painting class at the college six times, working on several different projects and honing her skills as an artist.

Torkelson said Jones, who teaches the class at CLC, was a major reason she had repeated the course through several semesters.

covered a love and talent for painting as a kid and had always wanted to revisit that passion.

"When I was in high school, I enjoyed art quite a bit," she said. "But then I went away to college, then life happened, and you just never get back into it. So I made an effort to do something I had enjoyed doing, and I still enjoy doing it. I lucked out by getting such a great professor."

Loizzo also credited his art professors with sparking his interest. With a major in horticulture, he took a ceramics class as an elective. His professors, David Bolton and Ben Bates, have helped him hone his talent into more than just a hobby.

Loizzo said his goal was to eventually build his own studio.

He said he was "shocked" when he found out he would be awarded the scholarship because he had been so impressed with the quality of work on display at the show. He added that CLC made it a point to foster the art program at the school.

"Just as a student and as an artist there, I feel that the strong focus [on art] is there, and I think [the school is] going to keep pressing that," he said. "Art is going to be a main drive there at the school."

The art show pieces can be seen at the Robert T. Wright Gallery on CLC's Grayslake campus, 19351 W. Washington St., through June 8.

From money to memories

What would you do with $5 million? What about 10, what about 20?

That's a question that many young professional athletes must ask themselves after being drafted into a whole new world of money and excess. And for most of these athletes such decisions will come at an age when most people are worrying about what to do with their first $500 paycheck.

I often find myself daydreaming about what I would do with my first million dollar NBA paycheck - even though I played my last basketball game that meant something about seven years ago.

It's the time of year when many area athletes will finally hang up all their equipment from a lifetime of competition. Gone will be all the practices and drills and all that will be left is the memories.

These kids won't have any million dollar checks to look forward to and most of them won't even have college scholarships to look forward to. For most, it's all over.

If there's one movie every sports fan should watch, it's the 1994 documentary "Hoop Dreams." The movie followed two adolescent Chicago basketball players William Gates and Arthur Agee for five years, beginning in eighth grade. These two kids, particularly Gates, came oh-so-close to living the dream and making it all pay off.

But, like so many others, all they have left is the memories. That, and one of the best documentaries ever made to chronicle a lifetime spent on the hardwood.

Thirteen years have passed since "Hoop Dreams" first came out, yet the underlying message is just as poignant today as it was when it came out. Professional athletes are by far the exception to the rule, but you still can't stop the dream.

One of the most poignant lines from any movie came from the last scene of "Hoop Dreams." It came from one of the teenagers.

As Gates said in the final scene of Hoop Dreams, "People say, 'When you make it to the NBA, don't forget about me.' I feel like telling them, 'Well, if I don't make it, make sure you don't forget about me.'"

As hundreds of our local athletes move on past athletics and high school into the next phase of their young lives, let's not forget about them, either.

Carmel pitcher 'tacks' on shutout, regional championship

Sandy Bressner - sbressner@nwnewsgroup.com

Carmel High School's Rachel Tack, a freshman, pitches a no-hitter during a 6-0 IHSA Waukegan Regional game win over Grayslake Central.

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

If there's any way to make a name for yourself as a freshman pitcher, Rachel Tack showed how to do it.

Tack pitched a no-hitter to lead the 12th-seeded Carmel Corsairs over the 13th-seeded Grayslake Central Rams in the Waukegan regional final last Saturday. The freshman fireballer got plenty of run support, to the tune of six scores to help the Corsairs to the big 6-0 shutout win over Grayslake.

Tack had a perfect game going until Central's Kelly Runge reached first on an error in the fourth. Tack also gave up a walk in the sixth inning. Her control was on all day long as she retired the first 10 batters she faced and struck out five in the process.

The runs came early and often for the Corsairs as well. In the first inning, Caitlin Hendricks led off with a single and, after a hit batsman, Kelly Gerli scored the first run with an RBI single. Later in the inning, Erin Heatherman got a sacrifice bunt for the RBI and Caitlin Trevillyan had an RBI single of her own to give Carmel the 3-0 advantage.

In the fifth inning, Carmel scored three more with back-to-back-to-back extra-base hits. Kelly Cook led off with a triple, followed by an RBI double from Gerli and Jordyn Gaza's RBI triple.

The regional championship was the first in Carmel's history and eighth-straight win for the Corsairs. Central ended its season at 11-20 while Carmel improved to 19-16.

Central Rams continue chase for the 'Cup'

Players, coach credit all-around effort in win

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

GRAYSLAKE - Four years does not give you much time to build a viable sports program. Well, unless you're coach Howard Kravets and his third-seeded Grayslake Central Rams.

After taking the team down to the state finals in 2004, the Rams are knocking on the door yet again with a 6-2 win over St. Ignatius in the Lacrosse Cup quarterfinals. With the victory, Grayslake Central (12-6) will move on to the Lacrosse Cup semifinals to take on Marian Catholic or Deerfield.

Should the Rams win in the semifinals, you can stamp the Central ticket for the Illinois High School Lacrosse Association Division B state finals.

Against St. Ignatius, Central's defense was all but suffocating for the Wolfpack.

Ignatius went the entire first half without scoring a single goal, and the Wolfpack didn't find the net until 7:35 left in the third quarter. Not to be outdone, the Ram offense definitely did its part as well. Grayslake out-shot St. Ignatius 11-3 in the first half as the team built a 3-0 halftime lead.

"It was a good game; our defense played pretty solid," senior goalie Zach Cureton said. "We had a couple of mental breakdowns in the second half, but it was a good effort all around."

Grayslake's mental breakdowns occurred only when the Rams could afford them.

Warren freshman Denis Bogatov was practically born with a tennis racket in his hand, and he proved that with a third-place finish in the state finals. Bogatov suffered his first loss of the year in the semifinals to eventual state champion Evan King.

Rachel Tack

Rachel Tack - Carmel

If there's a way to capture a regional championship, this was it as Carmel freshman Rachel Tack pitched a no-hitter to lead Carmel to a 6-0 win over Grayslake Central. That's right, a no-hitter, not to mention the fact that she struck out five of the first 10 batters she faced.

Batter's find their paradise

Corsairs crack Wauconda

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

MUNDELEIN - If offense was your cup of tea, then Carmel was a good place to start the IHSA baseball postseason.

Teams combined for 26 hits on the day in a 15-6 Carmel win over Wauconda.

"I told the kids that the wind was blowing out and a 2-run lead would not be safe," Carmel Coach Chuck Gandolfi said. "But it is the regional, and any team can beat you."

Carmel was then ousted by No. 8 seed Lake Forest 5-0 in the regional final.

"Those guys hit the ball, you have to make good pitches," Wauconda Coach Bill Sliker said. "We got the ball up a little bit, but I thought that they hit some pretty good pitches, too, you have to take your hat off to them."

Wauconda, a 12-win team looked pumped coming in and Josh Hartnet delivered a 2-run homer to left for a 2-0 lead. The Bulldogs lost that lead, but gained a tie a 5-5. After that the Corsair's (31-5) bats really got, hot. An 11-1 run quickly settled this one, sending the No. 1 seed to the regional final.

Senior Cory Stonelake not only was the winning pitcher (8-2) but had an RBI triple, a three-run homerun, and a solo blast. Junior Jordan Siversten had four RBI, two two-run doubles and a two-run homer that broke up the 5-5 tie.

"I thought we could hit all day," Siversten said. "You could tell in batting practice. Cory has been hitting the ball well, but the whole team is, too."

Wauconda catcher Jamey Carey knew of Siversten.

"I had played against him in youth baseball," he said. "He can hit it anywhere."

Carey said that the team was pumped going into the game, despite the No. 16 vs. No. 1 seed matchup.

"We were so up. I thought we did a decent job of coming back. I was surprised that we came back. I thought we would get blown out, but we came out pumped. I was really excited for it," Carey said. "I'll remember my hit yesterday. It was right down the middle. I knew I was going to swing at it, no matter where it was. I swung and hope for the best."

It was a tough day for all pitchers, with the wind blowing to left. Sophomore Brice Lahrman made his debut for Wauconda and pitched well, Sliker said.

Sliker said he was pleased with the 12-20 season as a whole, including the school's first postseason win in several years.

"We hit the ball well. The kids were going up there, being aggressive. That's what we look for and we hit some balls hard right at people," Sliker said. "I'm proud of these guys. They played hard. If we play our game, then we can beat any team and feel we belong on the field with some of these teams and we did for five and one half innings today."

The game marked the end for key seniors Cole Dimick, Ryan Sharkey, Travis Pedersen and Rich Mascheri. Pedersen will play at College of Lake County next year.

"This was the first varsity experience for Brice Lahrman and he handled it very well, it looks good for the future," Sliker said.

Wauconda had a momentary second lead of the game at 3-2 on an RBI single by Sharkey.

Carmel gained a lead on two hits in the third. Siversten walked, Zach Amrein, 3-for-4, who later had a solo homer for an 8-5 lead, singled ahead of a homer by Stonelake.

Carmel's lead grew to 10-5 on a two-run double by Siversten in the fifth.

A Memorial Day battle

Carmel relents under Fremd's high-powered offense

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

VERNON HILLS - If Carmel girls soccer Coach John Halloran had a choice, this was one three-day weekend he could have done without.

Fresh off the first girls soccer sectional championship in school history, the Corsairs were flying high on Memorial Day. But with an impressive offensive attack, Fremd (20-4) grounded Carmel 3-1 en route to the Vikings' first trip to the Elite Eight.

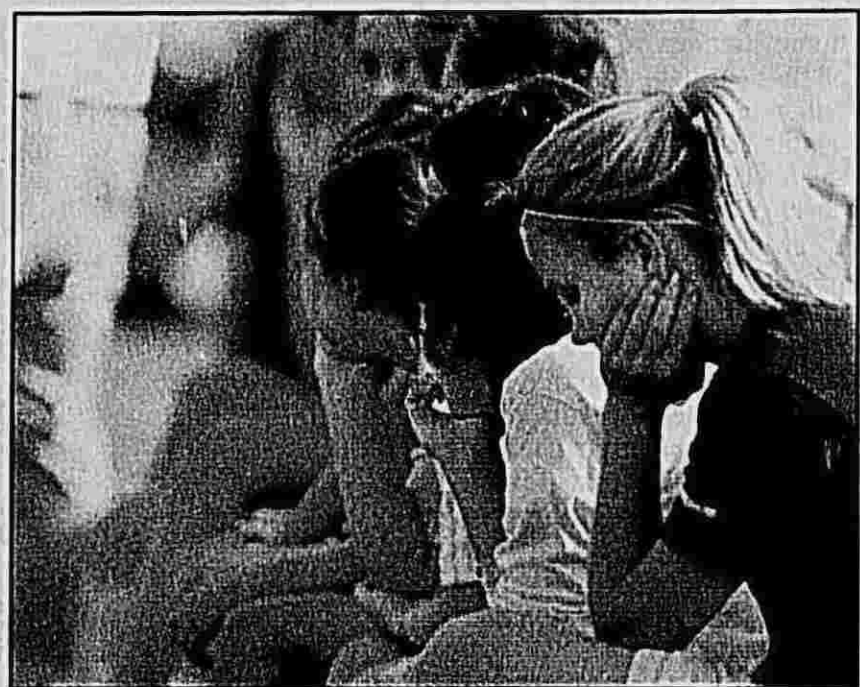

"We had a great season and took it farther than any other [Carmel] team before," Halloran said. "It's a hard way to end it, but Fremd is a nice team."

Both teams came into the game carrying double-digit unbeaten streaks - 11 games for Carmel, 13 for Fremd, so something had to give. From the first minute of the game, it was obvious that the Corsairs were the ones doing the giving.

By the time the clock clicked 39:00, Fremd had already tested Carmel's defense to the tune of three shots at the goal. One minute later, they had taken three more and by the end of the first half, the Vikings outshot the Corsairs 14-2.

At 19:39, Carmel's defense finally buckled with a goal from Susan Plager to put Carmel in the 1-0 hole. Even as Plager's 25-foot shot found the back of the net, the Corsair defense nearly prevailed as senior goalie Megan Osterhout almost reeled the shot in, but the ball slipped through her fingers for the first score.

Fremd's offense didn't relent as the Vikings took five more volleys at the Corsair goal. While Carmel didn't get as many shots at the Fremd's net, the Corsairs did make the most of the few chances they got.

In the 30th minute, Carmel got its first real shot at the goal as Caitlin Duffy kicked a loss ball off a corner kick to even the score at 1-1. It took all of three minutes for the Vikings to answer back as Samantha Balek scored on a similar corner kick play from teammate Daniell Romano.

The game's final goal came in the 12th minute of the second half as Janina Locascio scored off the assist from Caroline Vanacker.

Despite the loss, Osterhout said she didn't regret anything from her senior season. But as she racked up 8 saves after countless volleys, Osterhout had to salute her competition on Memorial Day.

"It's kind of hard [to lose], but we played hard. We had a good season, we won our first sectional in school history," Osterhout said. "The defense worked really hard back there. Fremd was really good and their offense was amazing. We tried to stop them, but it didn't work too well."

In the second half, the Corsairs did a much better job limiting Fremd's volleys at the goal. But Fremd Coach Steve Keller said the Vikings were pleased with their play in the second half.

"I was impressed with the second half because we settled the ball and played nice position soccer," Keller said. "We responded well in the first half, but we fell asleep and had a lapse and lost a goal, but we were able to come back nicely."

In an interesting parallel, this was the first time Keller had coached a state-bound team since he took the boys team to state in 2005 against, who else, but Carmel. As for his girls team, Keller is more than pleased to take this team to the Elite Eight.

"They're peaking at the right time," Keller said. At the beginning of the season, I wouldn't have predicted this. We've worked and talked a lot about tactics and strategy and the girls have really responded well."

With the first trip to the supersectional in school history, a run at the state finals seems well in reach for the Corsairs. Osterhout is the only Carmel player Halloran will be losing to graduation.

"Every season has its own set of challenges, but we do bring back 10 starters," Halloran said. "We have to replace a great goalie and that will definitely be hard, but we should be in pretty good shape for next season."

An awarding night

Grant honors outgoing boys track coach

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE — Grant Community High School recognized boys track and field coach Sam Spasojevich for more than 25 years of dedication to coaching track and basketball. A plaque was presented in his name at the school's spring sports awards night.

Spasojevich said that he was honored. He is retiring this year, after 28 years of service to Grant.

"His [Spasojevich's] integrity and caring nature will be missed, we know his reach will be far beyond the wins and losses," Tom Evans, assistant athletic director said. "And now, coach Sam, you can retire."

Evans wasn't the only one doing the thanking as Spasojevich praised the crowd for making his tenure so enjoyable.

"Coaching here for 28 years, I would like to thank GCHS administration for trusting me, and I would like to thank the Booster club, Mr. Barczak as athletic director, and the parents, all of you, in support of your athletes throughout the years," Spasojevich said. "I have had a wonderful privilege of coaching, and I am definitely going to miss that. That it is not just the wins and losses."

Receiving top honors was distance specialist Derrick Hall, who received the MVP award for boys track.

Hall bounced back after a devastating leg injury to have a successful season in the distance races, the 1,600-, 3,200- and 800-meter runs.

"He would run in whatever event that you choose for the sake of the team," Spasojevich said.

In steroid age, sluggers no longer all the rage

Here's a question that's sure to be a stumper around most breakfast tables and water coolers in the morning.

Just how many more home runs does Barry Bonds need to break Hank Aaron's record of 755?

Is it two? Four? Maybe more?

Don't fret if you don't know. Before writing this column, even I even sure.

When it comes to Bonds' chasing of Hammerin' Hank, suspicion-fueled indifference rules in a way it never has before.

Turns out the correct answer to the questions above, as reported by sfgiants.com, as of May 29, is that Bonds has hit 746 homers and needs 10 more to make history.

Try to contain yourselves.

At this point, I'm not convinced anyone outside of the

Kevin Kaduk

Bay Area is interested. Sure, national magazines and newspapers are full of columns opining against Bonds and all of his steroid allegations, grand jury involvements and general surliness.

But if Joe Public is anything like me, his eyes glaze over the minute he sees anything to do with the slugger.

It has become an involuntary reaction, much like tuning out pop-up ads.

So why devote an entire column to a topic most everyone, including Bud Selig and Aaron himself, is trying their best to ignore?

Well, the ignorance exhibited above is my whole point. Nine years after the country was obsessed with all things Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa, it has completely turned its back on Bonds. While McGwire's then-record-breaking home run ball fetched $3 million on the auction market, the lucky (or unlucky) recipient of Bonds' 756th might be fortunate to get a pair of season tickets and an order of garlic fries.

That comes as no surprise, especially because many view the churlish Bonds as a cheat.

What's interesting is how those allegations of steroid use have essentially killed the excitement of what used to be one of the most exciting plays in sports, the record-chasing home run.

Before you say, "Well, duh," stop with the revisionist history and remember that Big Mac and Sammy were able to fight through the same handicap, drawing huge crowds and praise despite a bottle of andro being discovered in McGwire's locker during the season.

Somewhere along the way, people, things changed. It's worth noting the new attitude isn't limited to just Bonds. New York first baseman Jason Giambi is on the verge of being run out of The Bronx after reportedly flunking a drug test and vaguely admitting to using performance-enhancing drugs to USA Today. But no one outside of the East Coast seems to care.

Down in Texas, Sosa stands two homers away from No. 600, but becoming only the fifth player to reach that plateau is a non-story, even back here.

In place of the masher, the new baseball prototype is the hybrid hero, guys like Jose Reyes and Jimmy Rollins who produce at the plate, on the base paths and on the field.

Still, it's strange to think that someone is approaching Aaron's hallowed record and the only response that can be mustered is a resigned shrug. That might change as Bonds comes within single digits.

But even then, the level of interest or reaction remains hard to predict.

>>Boys Track: IHSA Track Meet

Wait until next year

State finalists in Journal's coverage area don't place

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

Along with the bad weather came a streak of bad luck for the boys track state finalists in the Lake County Journals' coverage area. While Grant ruled the roost in the girls state track meet, their male counterparts weren't so lucky in last weekend's IHSA boys track state finals.

Antioch

Much like the rest of the North Suburban Conference's state entrants, Antioch came close, but lost out on the proverbial cigar.

Sequoit Brad Fortney came oh-so-close to qualifying for the shot put finals. In his flight, he finished in third place with a 54-1/2 heave. In the next heat, Fortney's teammate, hurdler Lamarr Pottinger, suffered an even worse fate as he was disqualified in the first heat of the 110-meter high hurdle competition.

Grant

Frank Putzell, of Grant, fared well in the warmup phase of the IHSA boys track and field meet. But he wasn't able to turn a nice warmup into a big win in the prelims.

"He did well in the warmups, with a 13-foot, 6-inch effort, which was 1.5 feet better than his personal best," Grant Coach Sam Spasojevich said. "But on Friday, they warmed up, then there was a lightning delay, and another 40-minute wait, then they said, 'You have 15 minutes to warm up. The qualifying mark to go on to the next day was 13 feet, and a lot of vaulters in Frank's flight did not make the height.'"

In his heat, a third of competitors failed to make the 13-foot height. And of the eight that did, four of them qualified with just 13 feet.

Despite the disappointment, Spasojevich said that he was pleased with Putzell's season. "As a freshman, he only went 7-6. He met most of his goals. He was very determined," the coach said.

Putzell is considering attending College of Lake County or Harper College, which has a track program, next year.

Grayslake Central

The Rams got their lone state finals entrant in 800-meter runner Jarod Zygmunt. Last week at the Vernon Hills Sectional, Zygmunt captured second place with a time of 2:01.27. This week, he wasn't so lucky.

In the second heat at state, Zygmunt's time was almost two seconds off of his sectional place as he finished the race in 2:03.13. That time got him a 12th place finish in his heat, but it didn't get him into the finals.

Grayslake North

Grayslake North's Nick Lane competed in the 3,200-meter run. Lane completed the race in 9:45.78, good for No. 38 in the state finals.

Lakes

Lakes freshman hurdler Marcell Kirkmanbey might have an impressive future ahead of him with the Eagles, but he'll have to wait one more year for a state medal. Kirkmanbey competed in the third heat of the 110-meter high hurdles with a time of 15.41 seconds, but he was just more than a second short of the qualifying mark.

Kirkmanbey's teammate and fellow hurdler Jon DeGrave took eighth place in his 300-meter intermediate heat with a time of 40.73.

Round Lake

All of Round Lake's eggs were in Jaquan Glover's triple jump basket as the big senior captured the sectional championship last week with a jump of 46 feet flat.

This week at the state finals, Glover was able to improve upon his sectional championship jump, but it wasn't enough to qualify him for the finals.

Glover finished ninth in the preliminaries with a jump of 44-6 1/2.

Warren

While the rest of Lake County had to deal with singles competitors carrying the school mantle, Warren's 4x800-meter relay team of Chris Burns, Alex Kuens, Carson Green and Steve Klein represented the Blue Devils downstate.

In the first heat, Burns, Kuens, Green and Klein managed to break into the top half with an eighth place finish. The team finished with a time of 8:01.98.

Wauconda

Wauconda High senior Rob Champion did not qualify for the final round of the discus throw, but did achieve his goals this year.

"He wanted to break the school record, which he did with a 156 feet, 6 inches inches, and make state," Wauconda Coach Megan Zemanek said. "He enjoyed the state experience, meeting the other throwers."

Champion was discus sectional champ at Vernon Hills with a 156-5 effort.

Champion was one of four seniors on the team, so the bulk of the Bulldogs will be back next year.

"We have a lot of youth and talent on the team to build on," Zemanek said.

>>BaseballRegionals

Warren wins first regional title in 4 years

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

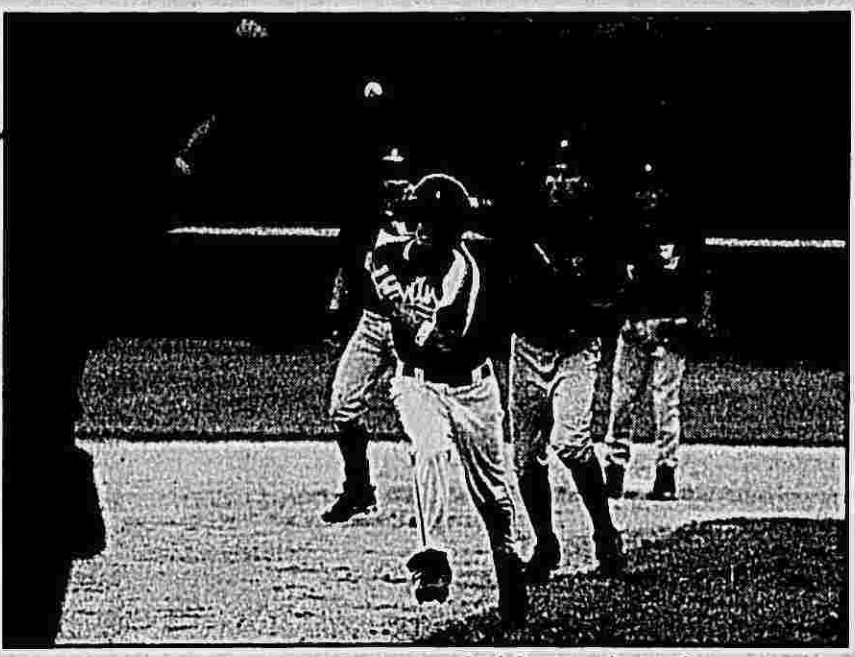

Cinderella stories are supposed to have happy endings, aren't they? Well, Warren baseball coach Dar Townsend is probably happy his team just turned the Zion-Benton Zee-Bees' chariot right back into a pumpkin.

No. 18 Zion-Benton (6-23), fresh off an unprecedented upset over second-ranked Grayslake Central last week, definitely had a nice run with the big upset. Well, Zion's upset number was up as Warren handed the Zee-Bees the 7-3 loss in the regional championship.

With the win, Warren met Vernon Hills in the opening round of the Mundelein sectional.

Errors plagued the Zee-Bees as Warren made the mistakes hurt, especially in the fourth inning. Zion-Benton finished the inning with four errors and scored five runs to flip a 1-0 deficit into a 5-1 lead.

Blue Devil center fielder Vince Viverito hit a big solo

Sandy Bressner • sbressner@nwnewsgroup.com

Matt Walters, of Warren, is chased down by Richmond-Burton's Brian Dittmar before being tagged out at third in Game 3 of the IHSA Warren Regional. Warren went on to win its first regional since 2003.

shot to ice the win for Warren. As Viverito's shot went over the center field fence, the Blue Devils won their first regional title since 2003 and improved to 16-15 to guarantee a winning record in 2007.

Vernon Hills 2, Antioch 0: After two innings, Vernon Hills' Cougars had just two runs on the board, but as it turned out, that's all they would need. Antioch suffered the 2-0 shutout loss at the hands of Vernon Hills (23-12) at the Stevenson regional championship on Saturday.

The win marks the first time in Vernon Hills history that the school has ever won a baseball regional championship.

The Sequoits ended the 2007 season at 17-19.

Lake Forest 5, Carmel 0: Top-ranked Carmel was upset in the worst way as the No. 8 Lake Forest beat the Corsairs 5-0. Lake Forest pitcher Mike Small all but shut down Carmel as he pitched a three-hitter.

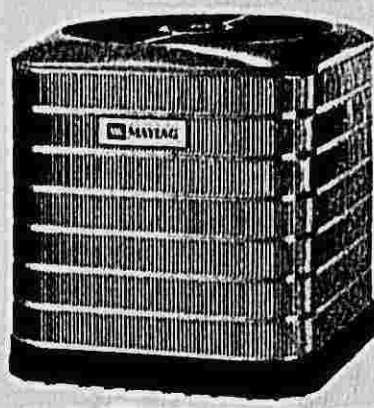

Small got plenty of run support as the Scouts put up five runs. With the loss, Carmel finished off the season at 31-6.

As Mundelein won against Libertyville in the Grant regional final, the Scouts will face the Mustangs with the winner going on to the Mundelein sectional championship.

Pretty Tile, Ugly Grout?

Have you thought about getting rid of your tile because the discolored grout makes it look dirty all the time? Is your tile still in great shape but your floors or showers look old because the grout is dirty, mildewed or stained? Have you tried every cleaner out there and none of them fix the problem? It's time to stop trying to clean away the problem.

If floor grout is not properly sealed, dirt, stains and dirty mop water are easily absorbed and embedded into the grout. Over time, your grout changes color and becomes dingy, ruining the look of your once beautiful floor. The solution is to remove the surface dirt with a vapor steam cleaner and then use an epoxy stain sealer to restore or even change the color of the grout. The stain is absorbed into the grout, creating a natural and brand new appearance to your floor. The stain has a lifetime guarantee with prescribed maintenance and makes cleaning a breeze.

If grout is discolored in showers and tubs, the seal has been broken allowing mold and mildew to come out from inside your walls.

No amount of cleaning will get rid of the mildew because you are treating the front of the tile, not the problem, which resides behind your tile. Disregarding these tell tale signs can result in costly water damage down the road. You'll need to re-caulk, re-grout and silicone-seal your tub or shower so that it looks brand new and is waterproof again. The silicone sealant also seals your tile, keeping water stains and soap scum from sticking to the walls after the treatment. This same sealant can also be used to seal your granite and marble countertops and floors.

All of the work can be completed in one day with minimal disruption to your household.

The Grout Medic is a national franchise with locally owned offices and also offers commercial work. They are licensed, insured, bonded and offer warranties on their services. For more information on restoring your tile or grout, you can call The Grout Medic for a free in-home estimate at (847) 705-2500 or visit them on the Web at www.thegroutmedic.com.

Warren, Grant see their seasons come to an end

• SOFTBALL

Carmel went on to meet top-seeded Crystal Lake South in the Mundelein sectional.

Mundelein 5, Warren 4 (13 innings): The Warren Blue Devils ended up on the wrong end of a 13-inning 5-4 classic in the Mundelein regional semifinal last Wednesday. The Mustangs, led by all-area pitcher Lauren Ott gave up many more runs than usual during the game, but they were all unearned.

Ott helped her own cause as she hit a walk-off single to finally end the game in the 13th inning.

Facing a 2-0 deficit, Warren put the game in a tie thanks to a Jenna Anderson RBI double that scored Nicole Bohn.

McHenry 8, Grant 0: No. 10

Cristina Hughes, of Grayslake Central, grabs a ground ball as teammate Kelly Runge looks on during a 6-0 IHSA Regional game loss to Carmel.

McHenry upset the eighth-seeded Grant Bulldogs 8-0 thanks to an impressive outing by pitcher Alyssa Brown. Brown gave up just two hits to shut out the Bulldogs last Wednesday.

With the loss, Grant ended its season at 19-12.

Warren freshman takes third at state

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

After pulling off an exciting sectional sweep the ride ended for the Warren Blue Devils. That is, except for Warren freshman phenom Denis Bogatov.

Bogatov, who suited up for the Blue Devils for the first time this season, was able to capture a IHSA state medal with a third-place finish in the tournament. The freshman got third place after he lost to eventual state champion Evan King in the semifinals 6-1, 6-2. He was able to capture third place over Hinsdale Central's Augie Bloom after Bloom went down with an injury in his semifinal match with Benet Academy's Connor Roth.

While Bogatov was the only Blue Devil to make it to the finals, Warren was able to score 17 points, good enough for a tie for No. 14 in the state with Glenbrook North.

Bogatov was good for 15 points while all the Warren doubles teams could manage was 2 more points.

In the doubles championship bracket, Warren didn't have much luck. Dan Gradner and Rob Ogden were defeated by Lyons' Dave Robare and John Smits in the first round, 6-1, 6-1.

Bogatov's best performance came in the fourth round against LaSalle-Peru's Patrick Hammers. The Warren freshman hammered Hammers to the tune of a 6-0, 6-0 shutout win to advance to the state quarterfinals.

Finally, Bogatov met his match in the semifinals against King as he lost 6-1, 6-2.

Offensive duo breaks down zone defense

• LACROSSE

Facing a 4-0 deficit, Ignatius finally found the goal on a score from Jake Kopczyk. After a Ram goal, courtesy of Quinn Blackburn, the Wolfpack's Michael Kline scored again with 5:23 left in the game.

And that was all she wrote for St. Ignatius' offense.

"We're pretty good on defense most of the time, but we did a great job today," Cureton said. "Usually, I have about 20 saves in a normal game, but this time, I only had about 10. Our defense played so well and they really shut them down."

Kravets also praised the Ram "D," especially the efforts of junior defender Brandon Landrum and senior Garrett Wagner. Overall, Kravets was especially pleased with his team's ability to pick up loose balls.

"I thought we played great," Kravets said. "One of the most important stats in lacrosse is ground balls and we got 48 to their 31. We got a lot of balls in the midfield and that was outstanding."

J.P. Peddle fulfilled his role as the team's main offensive threat as he recorded the hat trick with three goals and added an assist to Blackburn for good measure. Blackburn and Peddle made for quite the potent duo as Blackburn connected with Peddle for the game's first goal midway through the first quarter.

"We [Central's offense] started out a little slow, but we recovered," Peddle said. "They ran a zone defense pretty much the whole time, so we were able to cut through and get some really good shots."

Just as Peddle said, St. Ignatius' 3-3 zone defense was rendered useless by the Peddle-Blackburn attack. Between Peddle's 3 goals, Blackburn's pair of scores and a nice shot from junior Will Lunt, the Rams were too much for the visiting Wolfpack.

"They played a 3-3 zone the entire time, but we were very patient and we were able to move the ball around pretty well," Kravets said. "I thought we played great."

Vinyl windows: Not all the same

Choosing a superior vinyl window can be difficult if you don't know what to look for.

Over 50 percent of windows purchased today are vinyl windows. Choosing a superior vinyl window can be difficult if you don't know what to look for. It can prove even more frustrating if you purchase and install your vinyl windows only to find that they're poor quality, uneven and already fading in appearance. You might also face the realization that a bigger name is not always better and price is only one of several considerations.

There's more to choosing and installing vinyl windows than meet the eye. What's inside a window is more important than what's on the outside since the internal structure determines a window's longevity.

As a homeowner shopping for the best vinyl window, consider these factors in purchasing and making additional upgrades:

• Vinyl: Look at a cutaway view of the window to identify the quality of the vinyl and the thickness of the window's components. A thicker vinyl ensures rigidity and more overall resistance to weather damage.

• Jambs: The vertical members of the window frame, thicker jambs provide better overall performance of the operating parts of the window called the "sash." Building-grade windows have jambs from 2-7/16 to 3 inches thick, while premium grade windows offer 3-1/4 inch jambs. Visions' windows and patio doors, for example, have 3-1/4 inch jambs.

• Fusion-welded frames and sash: Maintaining a window's square form helps ensure proper installation, in addition to creating a sharp look. Fusion-welded frames and sash can make a big difference here; windows that utilize a four-point welding system for the head, sill and two side jambs, and for the sash are sturdier and less likely to crack or break.

• Chambers: These internal cavities within the frames and sash trap air, which insulates against heat and cold transfer through the window. Thick, multi-chambered frames and sash greatly improve structural performance by reducing the amount of seasonal expansion and contraction. Building-grade vinyl windows generally have two to three internal chambers whereas premium grades have five, six or seven chambers offering superior energy efficiency.

• Sloped sill: It's not the thickness that matters here; instead, consider the degree of the slope of the window's sill. Pockets seen on some vinyl brands will not keep water from collecting inside and outside of the window. A higher slope will allow for rainwater to hit the sash and flow downward, away from the window. This prevents water spots on the glass, and wear and tear on the vinyl.

• Spacers: The material used to join two pieces of glass together to form a dual-pane (or insulated) window — a spacer's material composition will affect air transfer.

Metal spacers provide either a stuffy or chilly atmosphere depending on the season. Non-metallic spacers minimize the transfer of heat or cold through the window and minimize condensation on the windows, which is often caused by higher humidity levels in a home.

• High performance glass: Vinyl windows, in general, are more energy efficient than wood windows. High performance glass gives homeowners even greater latitude to keep energy costs down.

More options are becoming available in the vinyl window market. A window made up of thicker jambs, more internal chambers, and fusion-welded frames and sash ensures durability and performance for all seasons. High performance glass, non-metallic spacers and sloped sills will contribute to improved comfort and convenience in the home.

If you can't remember all that, just remember, you can't judge a window by its cover.

Stay cool and keep costs under control

You don't have to let the threat of high utility bills keep you from maintaining a comfortable climate in your home. Energy experts suggest these tips to help keep your energy costs and temperature from rising during warm weather—not to mention, helping you keep your cool.

• Create an indoor "wind chill" effect. Installing and using a ceiling fan can reduce air-conditioning costs by circulating the air and making that room seem much cooler.

Keep your cool in the kitchen. During the height of the cooling season, light up your outdoor grill or cook with a microwave as much as possible. The oven just makes your temperature and bill rise.

• Do laundry and dishwashing in the early morning or late evening. Not only is it cooler at those times, but you'll save on your electric bill by running these energy-intensive appliances during off-peak hours.

• Put your cooling system on a schedule. Install a programmable thermostat to automatically coordinate your home's climate with your daily patterns, increasing comfort and reducing energy waste. And you won't have to worry about coming home to a sweltering house on those hot days.

• Don't "cool the neighborhood." You can avoid air leaks by weather-stripping doors and windows, caulking cracks in outside walls and foundation, and closing the fireplace damper when not in use.

• Rearrange your furniture. Avoid placing lamps or TV sets near your air-conditioning thermostat. These appliances create heat that the thermostat can sense, causing the air conditioner to run longer than necessary. And while you're at it, make sure you don't have any furniture blocking vents.

• Go ahead and vent... your attic. On hot days, attic temperatures can easily reach 110 to 115° F. Install an attic fan to draw heat out of your home during the day and to draw in cool air at night when the air-conditioning is off. Also do a quick check to make sure there are no leaves or bird nests caught in the vents.

• Make sure you're on a good rate plan. Many states allow you to shop around for your natural gas and electricity provider. Check to see who offers the best plans and whether any companies will let you lock in a rate to protect against future spikes.

Whatever Happened To The Buffalo?

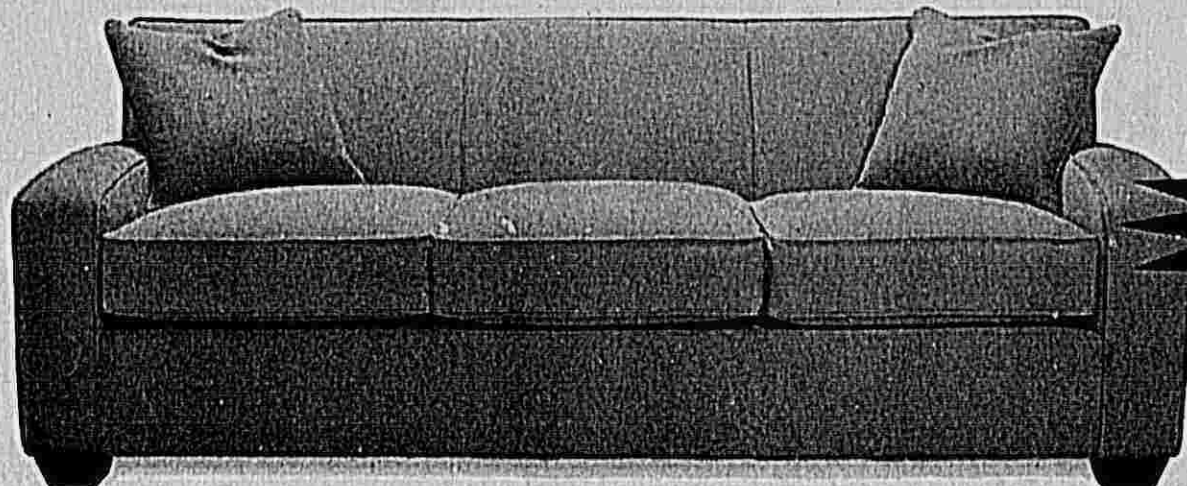

This question is asked a lot here at Lester's Material Service, Inc. If you have lived in the Lake County area for at least 15 years or more, you would be well familiar with the buffalo and the reason for our logo. Their home started in Mundelein back in the 1973 then moved to Grayslake at the Southeast corner of 83 & 137 back in the mid 80's. The herd was growing so rapidly that the corner they were grazing on could not accommodate the stampede. They had to be moved to bigger pastures in order to freely roam. So in the mid 90's they were moved out to Harvard, IL. In early 2000 a second herd was located in Salem, WI. On May 2004 the Harvard herd was reunited with the Salem, WI herd and are there today.

Ron Lester a.k.a. "the head of the herd" retired in 1996 from Lester's Material Service, Inc., a hardscape installer and landscape supplier offering pick up and/or delivery bulk topsoil, mulch, sand, gravel, etc. Since then he formed Lester's Bison Farm and has been raising his herd and selling the lean buffalo meat (leaner than any meat product) at local farmer's markets, including but not limited to Grayslake's Farmer's Market on Wednesday evenings starting June 13. Or you may visit them off of Hwy K just east of Hwy W and north of Hwy 50. Since Sept. of 1999 Lester's Material Service, Inc. is 2nd generation family owned and operated by 3 of Ron and Connie Lester's 7 children, all who were born and raised in Lake County and who have children they are raising in Lake County.

Prices good Saturday, June 2, 2007.

Selection may vary by store. Some merchandise may not be available at every store. "Sale" prices and percentage savings offered in this advertisement are discounts from Kohl's "Regular" or "Original" prices. The "Regular" or "Original" price of an item is the former or future offered price for the item or a comparable item by Kohl's or another retailer. Actual sales may not have been made at the "Regular" or "Original" prices, and intermediate markdowns may have been taken. Clearance merchandise is excluded from "Entire Stock" promotions in this advertisement. In some events, actual savings may exceed the percent savings shown.
